East Railroads
Seek Fare HikeWould Increase Passengers'
Rates Whopping 45 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Six Eastern railroads, including the New York Central and the Pennsylvania, today proposed a whopping 45 per cent increase in the first-class passenger fares—a step that would make such travel on their lines far more expensive than flying.

These railroads and two others also petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for a five per cent hike in basic coach fares.

The ICC probably won't take final action on the request for at least six months. But it was thought likely it would look with favor on some sort of increase since it recently acted on its own to begin a study of continuing losses from railroad passenger operations.

Offset By Freight
These losses have been offset by profitable freight traffic. In their petition, the railroads said they lost 1 1/2 billion dollars on their passenger operations in the past 10 years—an average of about 125 million dollars a year. And this year, they reported, their losses are running even higher.

In confirming persistent reports that big fare increases would be sought, the Central and Pennsylvania—which together carry about 25 per cent of the nation's rail passengers—joined in a statement which said:

"We have found it imperative to take bold action to put our fare structure on a realistic basis. By this we mean bringing it to a level at which the type of service offered by our railroads will reflect the cost of such service."

There have been reports that the Pennsylvania and the Central were prepared to surrender their first-class traffic—patrons of Pullman and parlor cars—to the airlines because of consistent losses. The statement did not provide any estimate of how much first-class passenger traffic the railroad would lose by a 45 per cent hike in fares—neither did it say in so many words that higher fares would compensate for any loss in passenger traffic.

Boost Coach Fares
The proposed increases would boost coach fares from the present 3.54 cents a mile to 3.72 cents a mile. First-class rates would be upped from 4.725 to 6.851 cents a mile. Under the proposed first-class rates, minimum rail sleeping accommodations from New York to Chicago would cost $76.50 compared with $49.61 for a first-class airline ticket. The present rail fare is $55.25.

In the case of coach travel, the New York-Chicago airline fare of $36.30 would compare with a railroad fare of $37.24. Such a railroad ticket now costs $35.47. Not all the big Eastern railroads went along with the move to initiate the unprecedented increase. The Baltimore & Ohio, a major carrier, said in a statement that "it is not a party to these applications for rate increases and had no comment to make on them."

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP)—West Germany plans to buy five million pounds—14 million dollars—worth of British airplanes, it was announced tonight.

Italian Line
Files $25 Million
Suit In Crash

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Italian Line followed up its criticism of the Stockholm's seaman-ship today with a 25-million-dollar damage suit against the Swedish-American Line.

The Italian Liner-Andrea Doria and the Stockholm collided July 25 off Nantucket and the 30,000-ton Doria went to the bottom. The Stockholm, her bow smashed, made it back to New York. Fifty persons are dead or missing in the crash.

Each line has blamed the other for the collision. The Doria claimed the Stockholm made a right turn that brought about the collision. The Stockholm said it was a left turn by the Doria that was responsible.

The Swedish Line has on file in federal court a petition to exonerate the Stockholm from any blame.

The Italian Line's federal court damage suit blamed the collision on the "fault and negligence" of the Stockholm.

It also accused the Stockholm of traveling eastward in the path reserved for westbound vessels.

The Swedish-American Line claimed the Stockholm could see the Doria when the ships still were two miles apart.

This was disputed in the Italian Line court action. The suit alleged:

"The weather was dark and foggy."

Eight Seamen
Hurt In Fire
Aboard Freighter

LEWES, Del., Aug. 10 (AP)—Eight seamen were badly burned today in an explosion on the inbound German freighter Heidberg at the mouth of Delaware Bay.

The Coast Guard issued a preliminary report that 10 had been killed in the shattering blast, but later reported there were no known deaths.

The tremendous explosion destroyed the bridge of the 1,595-ton vessel and reduced the crew's quarters below decks to shambles.

The blast occurred as the Heidberg, operating under charter to the Royal Netherlands Steamship Co. with an all-German crew, picked up a pilot for the passage up Delaware Bay and Delaware River to Philadelphia.

Dulles, Hammarskjold
Discuss Middle East

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today he had discussed the general Middle East situation with U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold but did not ask him to take any action in the Suez Canal crisis.

Dulles and Hammarskjold discussed the use of certain coal-tar colors in foods, cosmetics and drugs.

The court held that the colors involved "have been shown to be alarmingly toxic."

President Vetoes
Waterway Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—President Eisenhower provided some election-year fireworks today by vetoing a bill which would have authorized $1,600,000,000 in flood control and rivers and harbors development.

Without using the term "pork barrel," the President criticized some provisions of the measure—which contained pet projects of many congressmen—as "not in the public interest."

It was the first veto of a rivers and harbors authorization bill since President Franklin D. Roosevelt killed a similar measure in 1940, and likely will produce considerable congressional grumbling.

The President said he regretted the action. The bill carried authorizations for 99 projects or project modifications, and 14 river basin improvements. As an authorization bill, it merely would have written into law authority for the projects—the money has not yet been appropriated. Work could not have started anyway until after the next Congress provided the funds.

Eisenhower's veto statement said:

"While the majority of the projects which this bill would authorize have been given adequate study and review with the executive branch and by the affected states, there are still a large number which have not been reviewed in accordance with the orderly procedures set forth in the applicable laws."

"Therefore, it is not possible at this time for me to determine whether their authorization would be in the public interest. Still others have, after review, been found to be not in the public interest."

Early congressional reaction showed signs of following party lines.

Sen. Chavez (D-NM) said he was "extremely disappointed" in the veto. He predicted the next session will quickly re-enact the measure.

There are many worthy projects in the bill, nonpolitical but of general benefit to the area they will serve," he said. "Of course they will have to wait."

Sen. Cotton (R-NH), a member of the Senate Public Works Committee, said the President "is to be commended for his courage and forthrightness." The veto, Cotton said, is "realistic, down-to-earth."

The Republican said at the current rate of construction it would require 25 years and five billion dollars to complete projects already authorized in the past.

The President cited the fact that since funds have not been appropriated for projects in the bill, the next Congress can reconsider provisions of the measure.

Marilyn Offered
Radio Role

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Marilyn Monroe said today she fears her busy movie making schedule will prevent her from accepting an invitation to play the title role in a radio presentation of Lysistrata, a classic Greek comedy. The British Broadcasting Corp., asked her to play the part.

She said she is familiar with the role and "I would certainly like to play it some day."

Marilyn is in Britain with her playwright husband Arthur Miller. She is making a movie called "The Sleeping Prince" with Sir Laurence Olivier.

The government-financed BBC hopes to do Lysistrata the week of Sept. 29, when its arty third radio program has an anniversary.

Lysistrata was a charming, shapely and highly intelligent young woman who adopted sex appeal as one way of stopping a war. She enlisted the aid of women of both the fighting sides, and by getting them to say "no" to their men wrecked the armies and halted the war.

Eden Brakes
Increase In
Suez ForcesEgyptians Challenge
Right For Britain's
Request For Parley

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Britain tonight braked her build-up of military power in the Middle East under mounting pressure for a peaceful settlement of the Suez Canal crisis.

The slowdown came as Western diplomats spread the word of an American-British-French plan to guarantee the freedom and international control of the waterway as part of a compromise settlement with Egypt.

The plan envisages a new international treaty to govern the use of Suez and conditional recognition of Egypt's nationalization of the canal and its installations.

Order Postponement
Prime Minister Eden and his military chiefs ordered a second postponement of a mammoth trooplift to the Mediterranean, then announced withdrawal of two parachute battalions from Cyprus, Britain's Middle East military headquarters.

The official war office explanation was that the parachute troops are coming home to continue their training, for which better facilities are available here than on Cyprus.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser's Egyptian regime meantime challenged Britain's right to have called next week's London conference on the Suez dispute and charged Eden is trying to belittle Nasser in the eyes of the Egyptian people.

A statement issued by the Egyptian government here served the first official notice that Egypt will boycott the projected 24-nation conference fixed to open next Thursday.

Egypt took the same line as Soviet Russia did yesterday by questioning the composition of the conference and declared further the participants will be left with "no choice other than to accept the British point of view."

British Bewildered
The British Foreign Office admitted bewilderment at the meaning of Russia's critical reply to the invitation. The Soviet government, while saying it would participate, listed nearly a dozen objections to the talks as they are envisaged by the United States, Britain and France.

Britain, however, brushed off the Russian bid to renege and postpone the meeting. Officials said it will begin Thursday as arranged, with or without the Russians.

In Athens, informed sources said Greece has decided to attend. Assuming the Russians send a delegation, that would leave only 24 nations on the conference list.

Greece is cool toward Britain over the Cyprus union-with-Greece rebellion and had suggested the Suez conference be held later at some place other than London. The Athens informants said the British turned down these suggestions and the Greeks decided to go anyway.

American Buys
Killarney Lakes

KILLARNEY, Ireland, Aug. 10 (AP)—An American bought the Lakes of Killarney tonight.

The Irish took the announcement philosophically.

Trustees of the late seventh Earl of Kenmare accepted the offer of J. Stuart Robertson of Boca Raton, Fla., for the Killarney estate which includes the lower and middle lakes. The price was not disclosed.

The estate initially passed to the Kenmare family under a British royal grant some 400 years ago—during the reign of Queen Elizabeth I.

Few of the American's new neighbors know him but they have been told by the real estate agents who negotiated the sale that he's no stranger. Robertson's father was born in Wemyss Bay, near Glasgow, Scotland, but moved to County Kilkenny, Ireland, when a young man.

The elder Robertson went to the United States in the 80's and became a prominent shipper.

CAB Approves
New Airline
In Florida

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board today gave Northeast Airlines authority to enter the New York-Florida market.

Deciding its big New York-Florida route case in which dozens of rival applications were filed, the CAB—overruling an examiner's recommendations—decided that Northeast should be permitted to compete with Eastern and National Airlines in the coastal service.

In its decision, the CAB also ruled that:

1. National Airlines' route be extended north of New York-New York to Providence and Boston.

2. Eastern Airlines be relieved from restrictions which currently require (a) that flights serving Boston shall originate or terminate south of Richmond, Va., or west of Charleston, W. Va., and (b) that flights serving Providence, Hartford, Springfield and New Haven shall also serve Boston, on the one hand, and Richmond or Charleston—or points respectively south and west of those cities—on the other hand.

3. Capital Airlines be authorized to serve Norfolk and Newport News-Hampton-Warwick, Va., on flights which also serve New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore or Washington.

Negro Parents
Ask Segregation

SALLISAW, Okla., Aug. 10 (AP)—This east Oklahoma town will continue its policy of racially segregated schools in the fall at the request of the parents of Sallisaw's Negro school children.

School Supt. Grady Heard said today the petition from the Negro parents to the school board gave no reason for their request except they wished to keep the school for Negroes as it is.

Forms In Atlantic Ocean

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 10 (AP)—The first hurricane of the year developed in the Atlantic today and hurricane warnings were posted in most of the Windward and Leeward islands.

Hurricane Betsy packed winds of 120 miles an hour near its center. Gale's extended north 125 miles and south 65 miles. Some further increase in intensity is expected.

At 5 p.m. EST it was 640 miles east southeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and was moving west northward at 17 miles an hour.

When found this morning, Betsy had reported winds of 70 miles an hour. A hurricane hunter plane, however, flew into the area and found the winds.

The San Juan Weather Bureau put up the storm warnings—which mean the hurricane is 24 hours or less away—from the island of St. Lucia north to Antigua. Northeast storm warnings went up from St. Kitts to Anguilla and northwest storm warnings from Grenada and Barbados to a point just south of St. Lucia.

The hurricane is expected to move on a line south of the north-east warnings and north of the westward warnings.

"Indications are that the center will be in the vicinity of the island of Dominica about noon tomorrow. Winds will begin increasing to-night and reach full hurricane force by 6 a.m. Saturday," the San Juan Weather Bureau said.

The projected path would carry the hurricane slightly north of Martinique. Dominica is an island of 305 square miles.

All vessels ahead of the storm should exercise "extreme care," weathermen said, and small craft in its path should not venture out of port.

The first storm of the year, Anna, was a July 26 disturbance in the southwest Gulf of Mexico. It moved into Mexico before developing hurricane winds.

Adlai Claims
Nomination
Without HSTHarriman Believed To Be Choice Of Former President

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—Harry S. Truman turned tantalizing sphinx today to keep pacesetter Adlai E. Stevenson and Averell Harriman guessing uneasily on his choice for the Democratic presidential nomination.

From the Stevenson camp came one report that Truman had decided Harriman is his man, but Stevenson backers said he had it in the bag, regardless.

Stevenson himself told reporters that he thinks he can capture the nomination at next week's Democratic National Convention with or without Truman's support. His campaign manager, James E. Finnegan, exuded equal optimism.

Truman apparently made up his mind definitely today on the person to embrace in the intriguing game of political post office whirling merrily through convention preliminaries.

Truman Doesn't Say
But the former President wasn't saying yet. He did set the time and place for announcing his preference—a 3:30 p.m. EST news conference tomorrow.

Among other preconvention highlights:

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee hit town—no longer a presidential aspirant but thinking about a second place spot on the party ticket. He told questioners at the airport he "probably would accept" the vice-presidential nomination if he got the chance, but that he wasn't running for it.

The Wisconsin state Democratic chairman, Philo Nash, spoke up for Harriman's nomination in a public statement. A former administrative assistant to Truman, Nash said the choice is between "moderation in the interests of party unity" and a "vigorous program of human betterment inviting the widest possible support."

Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina, another arrival on the convention scene, called Stevenson a "good man" but wouldn't say whether he would support him actively. He said he still was "a little shocked" by Stevenson's call Tuesday for an "unequivocal" endorsement by the party decision banning racial segregation in public schools.

Focused On Hopefuls
Democratic platform explosive tied into the potentially explosive segregation-civil rights issue, but managed to maintain comparative calm.

But attention focused mainly on presidential hopefuls and their supporters, who ardently wooed Truman's support in pilgrimages to his fifth-floor suite in the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel.

Stevenson made it in first. He and Truman stretched what was heralded as a 10-minute visit to a half-hour talk. It was their second get-together in two days.

There was nothing to indicate it was anything but cordial—or that Stevenson got the word from Truman on the latter's presidential choice.

East Railroads Seek Fare Hike

Would Increase Passengers' Rates Whopping 45 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Six Eastern railroads, including the New York Central and the Pennsylvania, today proposed a whopping 45 per cent increase in the first-class passenger fares—a step that would make such travel on their lines far more expensive than flying.

Demo Drafters Hold Down Row On Civil Rights

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—Democratic platform drafters, trying to hold steam below the blowoff point heard demands today for adoption of a strong civil rights plank and a Dixie warning this would cost the party the election.

The strategy through hours of hearings all was aimed at stopping any big North-South civil rights row before it could start. For today, it worked.

Tomorrow could be different. Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr. of South Carolina will be back then for more testimony and questioning by a Negro member of the Platform Committee, Belford V. Lawson of Washington, D.C.

It was Timmerman who warned today of a Dixie bolt and loss of the election to the GOP if the Democrats insist on backing at next week's National Convention the Supreme Court's decision barring segregation in public schools.

The governor, a leader in marshalling Southern opposition to the court decision, took the witness chair after the Platform Committee had heard insistent demands by Northern lawmakers, labor union leaders and others urging a strong civil rights stand. He said:

"A profederal civil rights plank infringing upon the constitutional rights of the states and their people, a pointintegration plank, or any approval of the school desegregation decision will insure a Democratic defeat in November."

"It would be an outright endorsement of the Republican administration."

Timmerman reminded the committee that four normally Democratic states, Virginia, Florida, Texas, and Tennessee, had voted Republican four years ago while "eight Democratic Southern states remained loyal to the party at the ballot box." He added: "If the party repudiates them now, they may repudiate the party."

Driver Crushed By Trailer Truck

PATTERSON, N.J., Aug. 10 (AP)—Robert Thomas Boone, 30, of near Taneytown, Md., was crushed to death today beneath the wheels of his tractor-trailer truck.

Boone, a native of Rockville, Md., was working underneath the parked rig when the air brakes gave way, allowing the huge truck and trailer to roll over him.

A veteran of World War II, Boone served with the Navy in the Pacific. He was employed by Shipley Transfer Corp. of Reisterstown, Md.

War Monument Remains Despite Talk Of Jewels

ROME, Aug. 10 (AP)—The monument to World War I dead in little Santa Maria di Castellabate still stands on its marble pedestal today—despite Ernest Austin Simpson and all his talk of diamonds.

Simpson, how in a Seattle, Wash., jail on a bad check charge, said during World War II he and a buddy heading out of Pisa passed through a town where a bank had been wrecked by aerial bombardment.

Jewelry was stewn about and, Simpson said, he filled a bucket with diamonds, carried them away, and hid them under a monument at nearby Santa Maria di Castellabate.

It wasn't long after an Italian news broadcast included that item that most of the 3,000 population of Santa Maria were out with picks, shovels and hopeful hearts. The crowd converged upon the World War I statue, Santa Maria's only monument.

Some already were digging at the base when carabinieri — national police—got there. The carabinieri dispersed the treasure seekers and stood guard through the night.

Morning brought newspapers and disillusion. The fuller account of Simpson's story quoted him as saying "a century-old monument."

This part of Italy is full of such. But they all are the nation's property, protected from unauthorized excavation.

Also, calmer second thought gave the townfolk pause. Nobody there ever heard of any town in the neighborhood being bombed, nor any bank hoard of jewelry missing.

Carabinieri decided they could let the World War I status go unguarded the next night. In the darkness the repentant visited the statue. Dawn found fresh floral offerings piled to cover the spaded earth around its base.

Eden Brakes Increase In Suez Forces

Egyptians Challenge Right For Britain's Request For Parley

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Britain tonight braked her build-up of military power in the Middle East under mounting pressure for a peaceful settlement of the Suez Canal crisis.

The slowdown came as Western diplomats spread the word of an American-British-French plan to guarantee the freedom and international control of the waterway as part of a compromise settlement with Egypt.

The plan envisages a new international treaty to govern the use of Suez and conditional recognition of Egypt's nationalization of the canal and its installations.

Order Postponement

Prime Minister Eden and his military chiefs ordered a second postponement of a mammoth trooplift to the Mediterranean, then announced withdrawal of two parachute battalions from Cyprus, Britain's Middle East military headquarters.

The official war office explanation was that the parachute troops are coming home to continue their training, for which better facilities are available here than on Cyprus.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser's Egyptian regime meantime challenged Britain's right to have called next week's London conference on the Suez dispute and charged Eden is trying to belittle Nasser in the eyes of the Egyptian people.

A statement issued by the Egyptian embassy here served the first official notice that Egypt will boycott the projected 24-nation conference fixed to open next Thursday.

Egypt took the same line as Soviet Russia did yesterday by questioning the composition of the conference and declared further the participants will be left with "no choice other than to accept the British point of view."

British Bewildered

The British Foreign Office admitted bewilderment about the meaning of Russia's critical reply to the invitation. The Soviet government, while saying it would participate, listed nearly a dozen objections to the talks as they are envisaged by the United States, Britain and France.

Britain, however, brushed off the Russian bid to recast and postpone the meeting. Officials said it will begin Thursday as arranged, with or without the Russians.

In Athens, informed sources said Greece has decided to attend. Assuming the Russians send a delegation, that would leave only Egypt unrepresented among the 24 nations on the conference list.

Greece is cool toward Britain over the Cyprus union-with-Greece rebellion and had suggested the Suez conference be held later at some place other than London.

The Athens informants said the British turned down these suggestions and the Greeks decided to go anyway.

American Buys Killarney Lakes

KILLARNEY, Ireland, Aug. 10 (AP)—An American bought the Lakes of Killarney tonight.

The Irish took the announcement philosophically.

Trustees of the late seventh Earl of Kenmare accepted the offer of J. Stuart Robertson of Boca Raton, Fla., for the Killarney estate which includes the lower and middle lakes. The price was not disclosed.

The estate initially passed to the Kenmare family under a British royal grant some 400 years ago—during the reign of Queen Elizabeth I.

Few of the American's new neighbors know him but they have been told by the real estate agents who negotiated the sale that he's no stranger. Robertson's father was born in Wemyss Bay, near Glasgow, Scotland, but moved to County Kilkenny, Ireland, when a young man.

The elder Robertson went to the United States in the 80s and became a prominent shipper.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Minerva H. Stein, 50, today pledged 1,000 times, "I will not water my neighbor with the hose."

She was convicted of squirting water in the face of Mrs. Mildred Lee, 42, after a dispute over parking at the apartment house where both live.

CAB Approves New Airline In Florida

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board today gave Northeast Airlines authority to enter the New York - Florida market.

Deciding its big New York-to-Florida route case in which dozens of rival applications were filed, the CAB — overruling an examiner's recommendations—decided that Northeast should be permitted to compete with Eastern and National Airlines in the coastal service.

In its decision, the CAB also ruled that:

1. National Airlines' route be extended north of New York-New York to Providence and Boston.

2. Eastern Airlines be relieved from restrictions which currently require (a) that flights serving Boston shall originate or terminate south of Richmond, Va., or west of Charleston, W. Va., and (b) that flights serving Providence, Hartford - Springfield and New Haven shall also serve Boston, on the one hand, and Richmond or Charleston — or points respectively south and west of those cities — on the other hand.

3. Capital Airlines be authorized to serve Norfolk and Newport News - Hampton - Warwick, Va., on flights which also serve New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore or Washington.

Negro Parents Ask Segregation

SALLISAW, Okla., Aug. 10 (AP)—This east Oklahoma town will continue its policy of racially segregated schools in the fall at the request of the parents of Sallisaw's Negro school children.

School Supt. Grady Heard said today the petition from the Negro parents to the school board gave no reason for their request except they wished to keep the school for Negroes as it is.

Kellys Separate

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10 (AP)—Actor Gene Kelly and his wife, Betsy Blair, are trying a trial separation, his studio said today.

Year's First Hurricane Forms In Atlantic Ocean

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 10 (AP)—The first hurricane of the year developed in the Atlantic today and hurricane warnings were posted in most of the Windward and Leeward islands.

Hurricane Betsy packed winds of 120 miles an hour near its center. Gales extended north 125 miles and south 65 miles. Some further increase in intensity is expected.

At 5 p.m. EST it was 640 miles east southeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, and was moving west-northwest at 17 miles an hour.

When found this morning, Betsy had reported winds of 70 miles an hour. A hurricane hunter plane, however, flew into the area and found the winds.

The San Juan Weather Bureau put out the storm warnings—which mean the hurricane is 24 hours or less away—from the island of St. Lucia north to Antigua. Northeast storm warnings went up from St. Kitts to Anguilla and northwest storm warnings from Grenada and Barbados to a point just south of St. Lucia.

The hurricane is expected to move on a line south of the north-east warnings and north of the northwest warnings.

"Indications are that the center will be in the vicinity of the island of Dominica about noon tomorrow. Winds will begin increasing to-night and reach full hurricane force by 6 a.m. Saturday," the San Juan Weather Bureau said.

The projected path would carry the hurricane slightly north of Martinique. Dominica is an island of 305 square miles.

All vessels ahead of the storm should exercise "extreme care," weathermen said, and small craft in its path should not venture out of port.

The first storm of the year, Anna, was a July 26 disturbance in the southwest Gulf of Mexico. It moved into Mexico before developing hurricane winds.

Adlai Claims Nomination Without HST

Harriman Believed To Be Choice Of Former President

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—Harry S. Truman turned tantalizing sphinx today to keep pacesetter Adlai E. Stevenson and Averell Harriman guessing uneasily on his choice for the Democratic presidential nomination.

From the Stevenson camp came one report that Truman had decided Harriman is his man, but Stevenson backers said he had it in the bag, regardless.

Stevenson himself told reporters that he thinks he can capture the nomination at next week's Democratic National Convention with or without Truman's support. His campaign manager, James E. Finnegan, exuded equal optimism.

Truman apparently made up his mind definitely today on the person to embrace in the intriguing game of political post office whirling merrily through convention preliminaries.

Truman Doesn't Say

But the former President wasn't saying yet. He did set the time and place for announcing his preference—a 3:30 p.m. EST news conference tomorrow.

Among other preconvention highlights:

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee hit town—no longer a presidential aspirant but thinking about a second place spot on the party ticket. He told questioners at the airport he "probably would accept" the vice-presidential nomination if he got the chance, but that he wasn't running for it.

The Wisconsin state Democratic chairman, Philo Nash, spoke up for Harriman's nomination in a public statement. A former administrative assistant to Truman, Nash said the choice is between "moderation in the interests of party unity" and a "vigorous program of human betterment inviting the widest possible support."

Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina, another arrival on the convention scene, called Stevenson a "good man" but wouldn't say whether he would support him actively. He said he still was "a little shocked" by Stevenson's call Tuesday for an "unequivocal" endorsement by the party platform of the Supreme Court decision banning racial segregation in public schools.

Focused On Hopefuls

Democratic platform drafters tied into the potentially explosive segregation-civil rights issue, but managed to maintain comparative calm.

But attention focused mainly on Presidential hopefuls and their supporters, who ardently wooed Truman's support in pilgrimages to his fifth-floor suite in the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel.

Stevenson made it in first. He and Truman stretched what was heralded as a 10-minute visit to a half-hour talk. It was their second get-together in two days.

There was nothing to indicate it was anything but cordial—or that Stevenson got the word from Truman on the latter's presidential choice.

Dixon-Yates Cover Up Voiced By Estes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) today accused top officials of the Eisenhower administration of a "criminal" conspiracy to cover up the Dixon-Yates power contract. He demanded a grand jury investigation.

Kefauver directed his blast at Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's right-hand man in the White House; Chairman Lewis L. Strass of the Atomic Energy Commission; Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong of the Securities and Exchange Commission; former Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes and others.

The Tennessee senator, a Democratic vice-presidential possibility, charged Adams and the others of conspiring to conceal facts about the highly controversial Dixon-Yates contract, now canceled, by refusing to yield documents to his Senate investigating group.

"This whole plan was crudely conceived in darkness for the base and ulterior motive of destroying the TVA-Tennessee Valley Authority," Kefauver said of the disputed contract. He added that indictments and convictions have resulted "in cases involving similar circumstances."

Kefauver ordered copies of his statement published in the Congressional Record and delivered to Atty.-Gen. Brownell.

He also invited President Eisenhower, "if he is still unconvinced that Mr. Adams betrayed him and the American people," to order Adams to waive immunity and submit to questioning by the Senate Antimonopoly "task force" headed by Kefauver.

There was no immediate comment from Adams or any of the other Eisenhower officials named by Kefauver. Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, said, "We don't comment on anything we haven't seen, and we haven't seen it yet."

Kefauver's statement accompanied a report to the Senate Judiciary Committee by his task force staff denouncing the government's now-repudiated contract with the Dixon-Yates group. "From its very inception," the staff's report said, "Dixon-Yates was destined to end in public disgrace and disrepute."

"It's purpose was unwholesome, the methods used, devious, and in carrying out the scheme every concept of decent government and fair and equitable administration of applicable law was ignored."

The Dixon-Yates contract was negotiated in 1954 on orders from Eisenhower.

Mob Violence Spreads In India

BOMBAY, India, Aug. 10 (AP)—Mob violence spread through northern Bombay State today as language rioters clashed repeatedly with armed police.

In Ahmedabad, police opened fire on six separate occasions. In one incident one person was killed and three injured.

This brought the Ahmedabad casualty toll to at least 13 dead and more than 200 injured since rioting began Wednesday when students demonstrated against a government plan to merge Marathi and Gujarati would be in a minority under this scheme.

Troops have been called in to guard vital installations. Two people were killed in Kalol, 60 miles from Ahmedabad, when police fired on a mob in self-defense.

Fasting Dispensed Aug. 14 By Pope

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 10 (AP)—Pope Pius XII today dispensed Roman Catholics throughout the world from regulations of fast and abstinence Aug. 14, the day before the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Fasting is customary before major church feast days. A Vatican spokesman said the dispensation was made on the request of bishops from many parts of the world, but he gave no reasons for the requests.

Georgia Prison Warden Shifted To New Post

ATLANTA, Aug. 10 (AP)—Transfer of a deputy warden and restrictions on physical punishment of prisoners were approved today by Gov. Marvin Griffin in the official aftermath of a wave of leg-breakings at Georgia's rock quarry prison near Buford.

Griffin approved all nine recommendations made by Jack Forrester, director of the Department of Corrections, after an investigation of the mass mutilations of 41 convicts July 30 and 31.

Forrester said he and his aides found no evidence of brutality sufficient to "provoke the sadistic acts committed by the prisoners."

Prisoners are assigned to Georgia's "Little Alcatraz" only after escaping from or making bad records at other prisons. But once at Buford they must serve a minimum of 12 months' "good time" before being transferred back to a prison where work and discipline are less stringent.

While absolving guards of any overt brutality, Forrester admitted, in effect, that on four occasions prisoners may have been slapped or cuffed by guards. He said the slapping or striking of prisoners with the fist or any other object will be prohibited except to control incorrigible prisoners who may be in the act of endangering themselves or the lives of others.

Doyle Smith, deputy warden was named by several prisoners as responsible for beatings and abuse at the prison and while Forrester's report did not accept these charges as true, it did call for Smith's transfer.

Kennedy Would Accept Post Of Vice President

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said today he would accept the Democratic vice presidential nomination "if I am asked" but added he was not actively seeking the post.

Kennedy made the statement at La Guardia Field as he was about to fly to Chicago where he will head the Massachusetts delegation at the convention.

Kennedy has been mentioned as a possible Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Asked if he thought his Roman Catholic faith might affect his chances, Kennedy replied:

"I would hope it would not have any effect one way or another."

Railroad Fares In High Bracket

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—The increases asked by Eastern railroads today in first class rail fares would make train travel more expensive than that by bus or airline between the same points.

For example, the existing first class rail rate between New York and Chicago is $36.23, not including federal taxes or Pullman charges. Should the requested increase prevail, the rate would rise to $52.53.

By contrast the current air rate is $45.10 and that for bus $20.10. Neither of the latter figures include federal taxes or other charges.

Between New York and Washington the first class rail fare is now $10.55. Under the proposed increase it would be $15.30 compared to the $5.70 by bus and $14.40 by air.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin and his family left by train today for San Francisco and the Republican national convention which opens Monday, Aug. 20. The governor is chairman of the Convention Rules Committee which meets next Tuesday.

McKeldin also goes to the convention as a possible favorite son candidate for vice-president. State Sen. Harry T. Phoebus (R-Somerset) has said he will nominate McKeldin for the No. 2 spot on the ticket "if the governor doesn't stop me."

Cruiser Stolen, Four Are Held

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Two armed services policemen reported a stolen car today—their own police cruiser.

The plainly marked car with blinking red dome light on the roof was parked briefly while the police answered a call at a downtown grill. When they returned the car was gone.

Forty-five minutes later a Washington police scout car crew found the missing cruiser in an alley.

Gathered around the car at the time, police said, were four men—two of them sailors—all protesting they had only happened by while making the night spot circuit.

After police found that the car's windshield had been penetrated by a rock, the dome light dented and the upholstery ripped out the four men were charged with unauthorized use of an automobile and destroying federal property.

They were identified as Robert D. Eaple, Woodrow M. Dean, Earl E. von Reichenbach, and Walter C. Cook Jr., all of Washington. Eaple and Dean were the sailors.

Rescuers Reach Tunnels Where Miners Trapped

MARCINELLE, Belgium, Aug. 10 (AP)—Rescuers tonight reached tunnels 3,000 feet below the surface of the burning Bois de Casier coal mine where 260 miners have been trapped nearly three days.

Authorities said there was breathable air at the 3,000-foot level. Yesterday and earlier today a cloud of smoke and gas prevented rescuers reaching that depth.

Efforts to reach the trapped men now have been hampered by a cave-in at the bottom of the shaft the rescuers are using. A mine official said the operation would be slow.

At least 100 men are known to have died in the upper levels of the mine and except for six men brought out on Wednesday, all other men in galleries below 3,000 feet are trapped.

Water was poured into the shaft today to lower temperatures in the galleries, but engineers reported this had apparently stabilized a barrier of gas from the blazing pit.

At the surface, the vigil of wives, sweethearts and friends continued. Benches were brought for the hundreds who remained outside the mine gates on the cobblestone roadway.

An emergency station was set up in an army tent and nurses and social workers served soup, coffee, sandwiches and fruit to the waiting crowd.

Two Men Held For False Pretense

GLEN BURNIE, Md., Aug. 10 (AP)—Two Baltimore men were held for the grand jury on false pretense charges today in what police said was an attempt to bilk a tavern owner in a pretended whiskey deal.

Held in $2,500 bond each were Odell Davis, 32, and William Davis 20, a nephew-uncle combination.

William Davis also was sentenced to 70 days in jail and fined $300 on traffic charges brought after a wild auto chase.

Police said the pair were involved in a scheme to flim-flam Robert L. Brown, tavern owner near Jacobsville, out of money by promising to sell him whiskey cheap and then not delivering it.

Chicago Considering New Measures To Fight Polio

CHICAGO, Aug. 20 (AP)—Chicago considered new measures to "contain the fight" in its polio war today as the Board of Health predicted the current outbreak "should reach its peak" in the next five to seven days.

Bundesden said he based his forecast on a projection of present cases compared with the trend of those recorded here in the previous high incidence polio years.

"Our analysis, based on past records, indicates that this year's outbreak should reach its peak within the next five to seven days and then start tapering off," Bundesden said.

Twenty-three new cases today brought the 1956 toll to 676, including 18 dead, more than three times greater than at the same date in the city's previous high year, 1952. At that time there were 224 cases with 12 deaths.

Meanwhile, the Junior Assn. of Commerce and Industry conferred with Bundesden to complete plans for sending six sound trucks into a 26-square-mile West Side area, where the polio incidence has been the highest, to urge vaccinations. One truck for Operation Salk Talk, as the campaign is called, had already been donated by a local packing house union.

A ventriloquist, Paul Stadelman, 56, accompanied a mobile vaccination unit into the congested West Side area in an attempt to persuade children not to be afraid of the shots.

The West Side area has 332 cases or 49 per cent of Chicago's 676 cases.

Bundesden estimated that approximately 100,000 or 45 to 55 per cent of the children in the area had received inoculations. He said there has been no shortage of vaccine and added, "The Board of Health has done everything possible; now it's up to the parents."

None of Chicago's polio cases had received the recommended three doses of Salk vaccine, according to Bundesden.

News Publishes Small Edition

DOVER, Del., Aug. 10 (AP)—The Dover State News published an edition, about half of the normal size, today after a walkout of nine employees of its mechanical department.

A spokesman said the evening paper went to press at 3:30 p.m., about an hour later than normal and would publish on Monday also.

The spokesman said the dispute involves a demand for recognition of the International Typographical Union as bargaining agent for the paper's mechanical workers. Publisher Jack Smyth turned down the bid for recognition, saying the employees were entitled to a secret election under the National Labor Relations Board.

Dixon-Yates Cover Up Voiced By Estes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) today accused top officials of the Eisenhower administration of a "criminal" conspiracy to cover up on the Dixon-Yates power contract. He demanded a grand jury investigation.

Kefauver directed his blast at Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's right-hand man in the White House; Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission; Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong of the Securities and Exchange Commission, former Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes and others.

The Tennessee senator, a Democratic vice-presidential possibility, charged Adams and the others of conspiring to conceal facts about the highly controversial Dixon-Yates contract, now canceled, by refusing to yield documents to his Senate investigating group.

"This whole plan was crudely conceived in darkness for the base and ulterior motive of destroying the TVA—Tennessee Valley Authority," Kefauver said of the discredited contract. He added that indictments and convictions have resulted "in cases involving similar circumstances."

Kefauver ordered copies of his statement published in the Congressional Record and delivered to Atty. Gen. Brownell.

He also invited President Eisenhower, "if he is still unconvinced that Mr. Adams betrayed him and the American people," to order Adams to waive immunity and submit to questioning by the Senate Antimonopoly "task force" headed by Kefauver.

There was no immediate comment from Adams or any of the other Eisenhower officials named by Kefauver. Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, said, "We don't comment on anything we haven't seen, and we haven't seen it yet."

Kefauver's statement accompanied a report to the Senate Judiciary Committee by his task force staff denouncing the government's now-repudiated contract with the Dixon-Yates group.

Georgia Prison Warden Shifted To New Post

ATLANTA, Aug. 10 (AP)—Transfer of a deputy warden and restrictions on physical punishment of prisoners were approved today by Gov. Marvin Griffin in the official aftermath of a wave of leg-breakings at Georgia's rock quarry prison near Buford.

Griffin approved all nine recommendations made by Jack Forrester, director of the Department of Corrections, after an investigation of the mass mutilations of 41 convicts July 30 and 31.

Forrester said he and his aides found no evidence of brutality sufficient to "provoke the sadistic acts committed by the prisoners."

Prisoners are assigned to Georgia's "Little Alcatraz" only after escaping from or making bad records at other prisons. But once at Buford they must serve a minimum of 12 months "good time" before being transferred back to a prison where work and discipline are less stringent.

While absolving guards of any overt brutality, Forrester admitted, in effect, that on four occasions prisoners may have been slapped or cuffed by guards. He said the slapping or striking of prisoners with the fist or any other object will be prohibited except to control incorrigible prisoners who may be in the act of endangering themselves or the lives of others.

Doyle Smith, deputy warden was named by several prisoners as responsible for beatings and abuse at the prison and while Forrester's report did not accept these charges as true, it did call for Smith's transfer.

Kennedy Would Accept Post Of Vice President

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said today he would accept the Democratic vice presidential nomination "if I am asked" but added he was not actively seeking the post.

Kennedy made the statement at La Guardia Field as he was about to fly to Chicago where he will head the Massachusetts delegation at the convention.

Kennedy has been mentioned as a possible Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Asked if he thought his Roman Catholic faith might affect his chances, Kennedy replied:

"I would hope that it would not have any effect one way or another."

Cruiser Stolen, Four Are Held

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Two armed services policemen reported a stolen car today—their own police cruiser.

The plainly marked car with blinding red dome light on the roof was parked briefly while the police answered a call at a downtown grill. When they returned the car was gone.

Forty-five minutes later a Washington police scout car crew found the missing cruiser in an alley. Gathered around the car at the time, police said, were four men—two of them sailors—all protesting they had only happened by while making the night spot circuit.

After police found that the car's windshield had been penetrated by a rock, the dome light dented and the upholstery ripped out the four men were charged with unauthorized use of an automobile and destroying federal property.

They were identified as Robert D. Eaple, Woodrow M. Dean, Earl E. von Reichenbach, and Walter C. Cook Jr., all of Washington. Eaple and Dean were the sailors.

Rescuers Reach Tunnels Where Miners Trapped

MARCELLE, Belgium, Aug. 10 (AP)—Rescuers tonight reached tunnels 3,000 feet below the surface of the burning Bois de Casier coal mine where 260 miners have been trapped nearly three days.

Authorities said there was breathable air at the 3,000-foot level. Yesterday and earlier today a cloud of smoke and gas prevented rescuers reaching that depth.

Efforts to reach the trapped men now have been hampered by a cave-in at the bottom of the shaft the rescuers are using. A mine official said the operation would be slow.

At least 100 men are known to have died in the upper levels of the mine and except for six men brought out on Wednesday, all other men in galleries below 3,000 feet are trapped.

Water was poured into the shaft today to lower temperatures in the galleries, but engineers reported this had apparently stabilized a barrier of gas from the blazing pit.

At the surface, the vigil of wives, sweethearts and friends continued. Benches were brought for the hundreds who remained outside the mine gates on the cobblestone roadway.

Chicago Considering New Measures To Fight Polio

CHICAGO, Aug. 20 (AP)—Chicago considered new measures to "contain the fight" in its polio war today as the Board of Health president, Dr. Herman M. Bundesen, predicted the current outbreak "should reach its peak" in the next five to seven days.

Bunden said he based his forecast on a projection of present cases compared with the trend of those recorded here in the previous high incidence polio years.

"Our analysis, based on past records, indicates that this year's outbreak should reach its peak within the next five to seven days and then start tapering off," Bundesen said.

Twenty-three new cases today brought the 1956 toll to 676, including 18 dead, more than three times greater than at the same date in the city's previous high year, 1952. At that time there were 224 cases with 12 deaths.

Meanwhile, the Junior Assn. of Commerce and Industry conferred with Bundesen to complete plans for sending six sound trucks into a 26-square-mile West Side area, where the polio incidence has been the highest, to urge vaccinations.

One truck for Operation Salk Talk, as the campaign is called, had already been donated by a local packing house union.

A ventriloquist, Paul Stadelman, 56, accompanied a mobile vaccination unit into the congested West Side area in an attempt to persuade children not to be afraid of the shots.

The West Side area has 332 cases or 49 per cent of Chicago's 676 cases.

Bunden estimated that approximately 100,000 or 45 to 55 per cent of the children in the area had received inoculations. He said

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Back Talk

Have you taken a back glance in the mirror recently while doing your household chores? If you are one who leaves off her girdle come summertime, you won't like the rear view you see. It's not a matter of overweight I'm speaking of — but the dreaded housewife-spread.

Actually, the distribution of flesh and muscles, especially at the back, need control even more during warm weather when clothes are flimsier than later on. And the antics of housework require corsetry. The trick is to reserve a certain garment for the job and discard it when it no longer has any control. You need one that combines maximum freedom, and comfort and yet the same control and support that your "dress" girdles have.

Many women with the best figures always wear a girdle under a bathing suit... they look much

Mr. Wisman's family also was among the pioneers of that area. He is the son of Joseph Franklin and Luella Wisman. Mr. Wisman and his wife came to Cumberland 46 years ago. He first started in business in South Cumberland and later operated Wisman's Market, corner of Frederick and Decatur streets, until he had a heart attack about eight years ago, which still confines him to bed. Area Fruit Growers Show Progress In Organization

Half Of 4-State Crop Is Assigned

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 10 (AP)—A newly formed fruit growers association, being organized to help stabilize prices, reported today it already has been assigned to market nearly half the orchard crop of this four-state growing area.

The Growers Processing Apple Assn. of Appalachia, covering growers in Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania, said it had signed up three and one half million bushels of processing apples—about 45 per cent of the area's crop.

The directors are continuing the sign-up campaign and are completing details of the association's formal organization.

A six-man committee was directed to draw up the grower contract and draft a constitution and by-laws.

The committee, named by board chairman E. Blackburn Moore of Berryville, Va., consists of R. Sam Dillon, Jr., Hancock, Md.; Fred C. Matson, Martinsburg; Arthur E. Rice, Jr., Biglerville, Pa.; Ralph W. Tyson, Gardners, Va.; H. Delmar Robinson, Winchester, Va.; and Ben R. Lacy 3d, Front Royal, Va.

The association is patterned after the West Coast and Florida fruit growers associations and is designed to stabilize at reasonable levels the prices paid growers for their apples by processors.

The association hopes to lessen the wide price fluctuations when very high prices are paid in short-crop seasons, then low prices in big crop years, directors said.

They also reported that apple growers in western New York and Michigan are working along similar plans. Later the groups may work together under a central plan, they said.

Mayor Kerns At Paw Paw May Resign

PAW PAW—At the regular council meeting this week, Mayor Eldridge J. Kerns tendered his resignation upon the advice of his doctor, even though he has another year of his second term of office to serve.

Council accepted his resignation only on a temporary basis. He is to be relieved of duties for three months. During that time, John Kesler will function as mayor upon appointment of the council. At the expiration of this time it will be decided what action can be taken.

Both former and acting mayors are employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Kerns as telephone operator and Kesler as section foreman.

The oldest house on Winchester Street is being razed. The house, owned by Consolidated Distributors, has been known as the Robinson House and then the Hudson House. It was recently vacated by the Nelson Smith family. During the Civil War, Union officers had their headquarters in the building which was later used as a boarding house over a period of years.

Prison Term Is Appealed

LQNACONING — Ellis Warnick, 28, of Moscow, was sentenced Wednesday night at Lonaconing to six months in the Maryland House of Correction for allegedly assaulting a police officer attempting to arrest him on misdemeanor charges.

Warnick also was fined $25 and costs on drunk and disorderly conduct counts by Magistrate Melvin Sloan. He filed notice of an appeal and was freed under $1,000 bond. Authorities gave this account of the arrest:

Warnick reportedly created a disturbance Tuesday night on Main Street in Lonaconing, and Patrolman Quail Wilson, 62, accosted him while making his rounds.

Officer Wilson advised Warnick to "move along" and the defendant became aggressive, inflicting cuts and bruises by kicking and beating. Spectators were pushed aside by Warnick.

Tic. Harry Bosley, of the Maryland State Police, arrived at the scene and placed Warnick under arrest without difficulty.

Officer Wilson is confined to his home on a physician's order.

Eckhart Baptists Rebuilding Church

The Eckhart Baptist Church is being rebuilt this summer. The old church was torn down back to the part immediately to the rear of the truck on the left, which are Sunday School rooms. The front part is ready now for the brick veneer which will cover the entire building, the old as well as the new. The seating capacity in the new structure will double that of the old building. In the room on the corner where the concrete blocks are, a sound proof nursery will be installed where parents with small children may watch and hear the service from this sound proof room, the sermon being carried by a sound system. A belfry will be added for the bell seen above the concrete block section. The congregation expects to use the completed structure about the first of October. Area Fruit Growers Show Progress In Organization

Half Of 4-State Crop Is Assigned

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 10 (AP)—A newly formed fruit growers association, being organized to help stabilize prices, reported today it already has been assigned to market nearly half the orchard crop of this four-state growing area.

The Growers Processing Apple Assn. of Appalachia, covering growers in Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania, said it had signed up three and one half million bushels of processing apples—about 45 per cent of the area's crop.

The directors are continuing the sign-up campaign and are completing details of the association's formal organization.

The association is patterned after the West Coast and Florida fruit growers associations and is designed to stabilize at reasonable levels the prices paid growers for their apples by processors.

The association hopes to lessen the wide price fluctuations when very high prices are paid in short-crop seasons, then low prices in big crop years, directors said.

Mayor Kerns At Paw Paw May Resign

PAW PAW—At the regular council meeting this week, Mayor Eldridge J. Kerns tendered his resignation upon the advice of his doctor, even though he has another year of his second term of office to serve.

Council accepted his resignation only on a temporary basis. He is to be relieved of duties for three months. During that time, John Kesler will function as mayor upon appointment of council. At the expiration of this time it will be decided what action can be taken.

Both former and acting mayors are employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Kerns as telephone operator and Kesler as section foreman.

The oldest house on Winchester Street is being razed. The house, owned by Consolidated Distributors, has been known as the Robinson House and then the Hudson House. It was recently vacated by the Nelson Smith family. During the Civil War, Union officers had their headquarters in the building which was later used as a boarding house over a period of years.

Prison Term Is Appealed

LONA CONING — Ellis Warnick, 28, of Moscow, was sentenced Wednesday night at Lonaconing to six months in the Maryland House of Correction for allegedly assaulting a police officer attempting to arrest him on misdemeanor charges.

Warnick also was fined $25 and costs on drunk and disorderly conduct counts by Magistrate Melvin Sloan. He filed notice of an appeal and was freed under $1,000 bond. Authorities gave this account of the arrest:

Warnick reportedly created a disturbance Tuesday night on Main Street in Lonaconing, and Patrolman Quail Wilson, 62, accosted him while making his rounds.

Officer Wilson advised Warnick to "move along" and the defendant became aggressive, inflicting cuts and bruises by kicking and beating. Spectators were pushed aside by Warnick.

Tfc. Harry Bosley, of the Maryland State Police, arrived at the scene and placed Warnick under arrest without difficulty.

Officer Wilson is confined to his home on a physician's order.

Eckhart Baptists Rebuilding Church

The Eckhart Baptist Church is being rebuilt this summer. The old church was torn down back to the part immediately to the rear of the truck on the left, which are Sunday School rooms. The front part is ready now for the brick veneer which will cover the entire building, the old as well as the new. The seating capacity in the new structure will double that of the old building. In the room on the corner where the concrete blocks are, a sound proof nursery will be installed where parents with small children may watch and hear the service from this sound proof room, the sermon being carried by a sound system. A belfry will be added for the bell seen above the concrete block section. The congregation expects to use the completed structure about the first of October. They are presently meeting in the Eckhart Elementary School for all services.

School Lunch Workers Slated To Meet Here

As the school year nears the cafeteria department of the Allegany County Board of Education is getting ready to feed the 15,800 students in public schools.

Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias, said Thursday, August 29, and Friday, August 30, will be devoted to meetings for workers and managers at Fort Hill.

On one of the two days, the managers will meet with Mrs. Eaton to go over the plans for the school year which, for the cafeteria department, will start when full day sessions begin September 10.

On the other day Mrs. Eaton will meet with all managers and all cafeteria personnel for demonstrations and discussions of the latest menus and methods of operation.

A representative of the Social Security office in Cumberland will attend to explain the benefits and coverage.

Increased federal subsidy of the school lunch programs in Maryland was voted by the recent Congress.

Where there was only $695,000 available for subsidies on the lunches last year, there will be $1,073,056 on hand for the 1956-57 term, Mrs. Eaton explained.

When the 1955-56 year began, federal assistance on each lunch amounted to four cents, but during the year it dropped to two cents.

Ridgeley Plans Rate Increase

Ridgeley will place an appeal for an increase in water rates at a hearing Monday, August 24, before the West Virginia Public Service Commission in Charleston, Mayor Charles H. Fryer said yesterday.

Explaining that Ridgeley purchases its water supply from Cumberland, Mayor Fryer said the appeal is being made to match a rate increase of 33 1/2 per cent which Cumberland imposed July 1, 1955, on industrial purchasers.

Since that time, Ridgeley has tried to operate without increasing its rates to consumers, Mayor Fryer said, but this has proved to be impracticable and costly.

The PSC, he continued, will be shown a chart prepared by Leroy Fleming, acting town accountant, which reveals a steady drop in revenue from water rates over the past year.

Ridgeley charges a minimum quarterly rate of $4.75 to consumers, Mayor Fryer said, adding that the requested increase will add approximately $2 to the three-month charge.

Scheduled to attend the PSC hearing, besides Mayor Fryer, are Fleming and City Attorney Harry Drane, of Keyser.

The 1955 rate increase, city water officials said, boosted the minimum rates for Cumberland customers on meters 20 per cent, from $4.50 to $5.40.

The rate for out-of-town home customers was raised 50 per cent, to $6.75.

Chapman Authorized To Cut Drainage Ditch

The Allegheny County Board of Commissioners yesterday authorized J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, to cut a drainage ditch through a driveway on Cash Valley Road to eliminate the flow of water on to the property of Paul Sanders, whose property is across the road.

Sanders appeared before the board Tuesday to request that the situation be taken care of. The owner of the driveway have agreed to the work and to the cutting of the ditch so that the surface water will flow into a wooded area.

School Lunch Workers Slated To Meet Here

As the school year nears the cafeteria department of the Allegheny County Board of Education is getting ready to feed the 15,800 students in public schools.

Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias, said Thursday, August 29, and Friday, August 30, will be devoted to meetings for workers and managers at Fort Hill.

On one of the two days, the managers will meet with Mrs. Eaton to go over the plans for the school year which, for the cafeteria department, will start when full day sessions begin September 10.

On the other day Mrs. Eaton will meet with all managers and all cafeteria personnel for demonstrations and discussions of the latest menus and methods of operation.

A representative of the Social Security office in Cumberland will attend to explain the benefits and coverage.

Increased federal subsidy of the school lunch programs in Maryland was voted by the recent Congress.

Where there was only $695,000 available for subsidies on the lunches last year, there will be $1,073,056 on hand for the 1956-57 term, Mrs. Eaton explained.

When the 1955-56 year began, federal assistance on each lunch amounted to four cents, but during the year it dropped to two cents.

Ridgeley Plans Rate Increase

Ridgeley will place an appeal for an increase in water rates at a hearing Monday, August 24, before the West Virginia Public Service Commission in Charleston, Mayor Charles H. Fryer said yesterday.

Explaining that Ridgeley purchases its water supply from Cumberland, Mayor Fryer said the appeal is being made to match a rate increase of 33 1/2 per cent which Cumberland imposed July 1, 1955, on industrial purchasers.

Since that time, Ridgeley has tried to operate without increasing its rates to consumers, Mayor Fryer said, but this has proved to be impracticable and costly.

The PSC, he continued, will be shown a chart prepared by Leroy Fleming, acting town accountant, which reveals a steady drop in revenue from water rates over the past year.

Ridgeley charges a minimum quarterly rate of $4.75 to consumers, Mayor Fryer said, adding that the requested increase will add approximately $2 to the three-month charge.

Scheduled to attend the PSC hearing, besides Mayor Fryer, are Fleming and City Attorney Harry Drane, of Keyser.

The 1955 rate increase, city water officials said, boosted the minimum rates for Cumberland customers on meters 20 per cent, from $4.50 to $5.40.

The rate for out-of-town home customers was raised 50 per cent, to $6.75.

Cities Collecting
And Spending More

In 1955 the country's 481 cities having more than 25,000 inhabitants had total revenues of $8 billion, expenditures of $8.3 billion and outstanding debts of $13.2 billion. At the end of the year they had collected more money and spent more money than in any other year in history—and owed more money than ever before.

These cities' revenues in the aggregate were 6.5 per cent higher than in 1954. The same increase was shown in their spending. And there was an 8.3 per cent rise in the cities' total debt.

Municipalities included in the Bureau of Census study account for about four-fifths of all city government revenues and expenditures. In property taxes their receipts were $3 billion, a per capita figure of $49.19, and an increase of 4.1 per cent over 1954. The total of "general revenues"—with amounts pertaining to municipally-operated utilities and employ pension plans excluded—was $6.4 billion, an increase during the year of 6.8 per cent and a per capita amount of $102.88.

"General" expenditures by the 481 cities were $6.4 billion in 1955. In every classification spending was higher than in the preceding year. And while "times" generally were considered better last year—possibly because of that fact—the biggest percentage of increase in municipal outlays was under the heading of public welfare.

However, on a per capita basis the outlay for education, at $17.80, led the list. Sanitation, street and highways, police protection, health and hospitals, fire protection, public welfare, and recreation followed in that order.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Adult Delinquents

J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI recently said on a broadcast, "a criminal is not born—a criminal is made."

Except for the very few who are idiots or morons, because of damage to the brain, most children would grow up wholesome members of society, if they were not corrupted in the years of their upbringing.

The Board of Education of New York City is facing precisely this problem and is having a tough time of it because of the multi-religious character of the city's population and the competition among the various religious groups.

In 1951, the New York State Board of Regents adopted a "Statement of Moral and Spiritual Training in the Schools." In 1953, the New York City Board of Education passed two resolutions on this subject, one of which required each day to begin with the "Pledge of Allegiance" and the singing of the fourth stanza of "America." When I read this resolution, I was shocked because when I went to New York City's public schools we always started the day with the "Pledge of Allegiance." It never occurred to me that anybody would have had the temerity to drop this essential affirmation of belonging and of loyalty.

The other resolution had to do with "...insuring that such curriculum includes appropriate programs of instruction emphasizing the spiritual interest and patriotic motivations of our pioneering ancestors, the devotion and self-sacrifice of the Founding Fathers and their abiding belief in the principles of democracy."

In the document on this subject, issued July 1956, the statement is made that "Religious education and training are not functions of state-supported schools. Religious education and training are the exclusive responsibility of the home, church and synagogue..."

This is stated with too much finality, although in New York those who must face every municipal function as a political problem, nothing else can be said. But parents have to view the question differently. The child spends five or six hours a day at school and sometimes many more. It is inconceivable that during those many hours, the child should be altogether without religious education, without moral teachings, without ethical precepts. The fear of one religious group that another might be more attractive or present its case more attractively does not take into consideration the welfare of the child but rather the numerical strength of its votaries. So, the statement says:

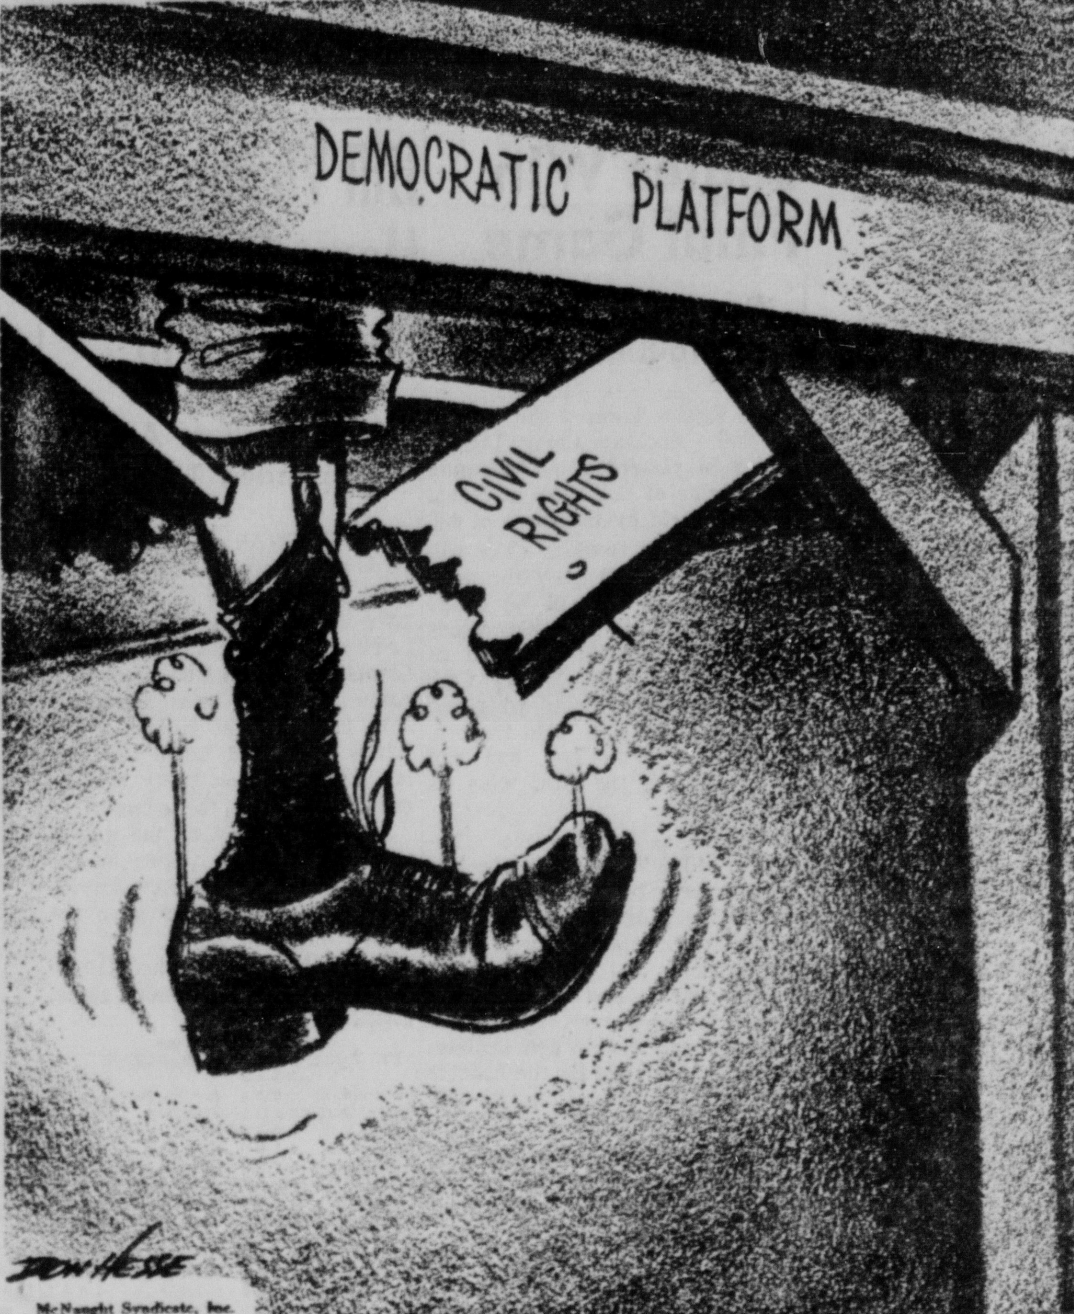

"...It is neither a function nor a prerogative of the public schools to teach religion or to indoctrinate pupils with the tenets, doctrines or dogmas of any religion, of any sect, or of secularism. This is a simple reaffirmation of a prized and basic characteristic of America's legal and constitutional heritage."

But it has been the prized and fundamental characteristic of America's legal and constitutional heritage to teach religion and a morality based on religion in our schools. All one needs to do is to read the early school readers of this country or to take the McGuffey Readers which strengthened the characters of millions of Americans at the time of this nation's greatest period of up-building. No one taught anything sectarian; they taught religion. Nobody used the school to proselytize; they taught God and His law of life.

J. Edgar Hoover has stated the results of the change of attitude:

"Now as to the seriousness of the problem, I think I can point out to you that in 1955 one out of every 35 youths between the ages of 10 and 17 was arrested. Five hundred seventy-six thousand persons under the age of 18 were taken into custody in the United States. This happens to be an increase of 11 per cent over the previous calendar year. At the present time the record shows that 42 per cent of all persons arrested for major crimes are persons under the age of 18, and of that number, more than one-half are under the age of 15."

These are the cold facts of our society in which sectarianism has taken the place of religion, politics the place of morality, materialism the place of God. The increase in juvenile delinquency can only convict the adults who corrupt their own children by withholding from them God's gift of moral law which alone can guide human beings, of whatever faith, to the moral life. Human experience has established that for it there is no substitute.

Dulles Is Right In Not Letting Newsmen Go To China

WASHINGTON—Secretary Dulles is getting some brickbats for it, but he is eternally right in insisting that American newspapermen should not be granted any preference over other Americans who wish to pursue their particular businesses on the territory of Communist China.

The government of the United States has a definite policy, which is to refuse passports to any American who wishes to go to the mainland of China. Permission, for example, was refused to the parents of the American fliers who were imprisoned by Red China. The Red China government invited them. It was a tough thing to have to refuse parents a chance to see their loved ones. Similar permission has been withheld from businessmen seeking to make deals with the Red Chinese in disregard of existing embargoes on trade.

Newsmen naturally feel they are in a different class and that, in seeking information, they are not engaging in business, but, so far as the Department of State is concerned, it must treat all Americans alike, whether they are in the publishing business or the grain business. It cannot today let Americans engaged in the newspaper business pursue their work in Red China and tomorrow turn down the requests for similar privileges sought by other Americans engaged in other businesses who may wish to enter Red China for brief or prolonged visits.

An argument can, of course, be made that the newsmen will bring out new facts, that they will not be "brainwashed" and that they will be objective and impartial. But the State Department cannot be concerned with the quality of the work that might be done by any American. It is not refusing to validate passports just because it is in any way afraid that American newsmen will be unduly influenced. What it is afraid of is that, if the doors are opened to one set of Americans, they must be opened to all other Americans in business, and this is not considered a desirable step to take at this time.

One reason for the policy is that the Red China government has refused to release imprisoned Americans, notwithstanding solemn promises given more than a year ago that this would be done. Another reason is that the United States, as a member of the United Nations, is really in a state of war with the Red China government. Even members of the Neutral Commission, like Sweden and Switzerland, who were supervising the Korean War armistice signed at Panmunjom have not been permitted to go north of the armistice line to make the inspections which the armistice agreement expressly provided for.

Under such circumstances, the invitation by the Red China government is plainly a propaganda trick which the United States government must expose as such and must insist in transparently insincere. For there are hundreds of Americans still in jail there—the exact number is unknown—and Red China refuses to let any neutral Red Cross personnel go in to find out the truth.

Strictly speaking, the United States government is obligated to protect the lives and property of its nationals abroad. If those citizens to whom passports are issued are made captive, they can, in accordance with tradition, rely on the armed forces of the United States to come to their rescue. It doesn't help the State Department at this time to say that in all probability the Communist Chinese wouldn't really harm the American newsmen if they went to China. The State Department couldn't make a convincing case to the American people later on if harm befell the American newsmen—it couldn't say that the Department let them enter a war area on the supposition that the Red Chinese leaders would refrain from doing them harm. The record of the Peking regime is the record of gangsters in government. Pledges and agreements have been broken right along.

But supposing every American newsmen would sign a waiver of liability and free his government from any obligation to protect him or to intercede for him if he were taken prisoner, so that all newsmen who entered would be doing so at their own risk, it might be asked if this would satisfy the State Department. The answer would be negative. For other American businessmen might choose to apply for the same privilege, and the result would be commercial intercourse of a clandestine nature which the American government could not even tacitly encourage.

Some news is coming out of Red China through newsmen whose governments have established diplomatic relations with the Peking government. But no newsmen will probably be able to see during a 30-day visit the things which were described recently by Lucian Taire, a European businessman who has just come out of Red China after more than 30 years of residence there. Excerpts from his book, which were published recently by U.S. News & World Report, revealed an amazing story of how Communist China has been Sovietized and enslaved.

It is doubtful whether much real news will be lost to the world by the failure of American newsmen at this time to make a 30-day trip to Red China. For about all they get is what some Australian and British newsmen already have gotten on their 30-day trips—some generalities about the situation obtained in guided tours restricted in area and many quotations reiterating the propaganda of the Red Chinese leaders.

It is more important for the American newsmen to support their own government's efforts to secure compliance by the Red Chinese with international obligations, and particularly adherence to agreements already signed with the United Nations, than to assist the Red Chinese in attempting to embarrass the American government. For the Red Chinese, who have never atoned for their crime in killing 33,500 and wounding 103,000 American boys in the war of aggression in Korea, have achieved their objective. They see American newspapers severely criticizing their own government for "erecting a bamboo curtain," and all this because the State Department can make no exceptions between businessmen when the stakes are so great and the moral issues so clear.

Middle Ear Infections Now Becoming More Common

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Twenty years ago there was a marked decrease in the number of middle ear infections (otitis media). Mastoiditis, the number one complication, became so rare that most medical students went through school without seeing a case.

But the pendulum is swinging back again. The wonder drugs, which were given credit for reducing the incidence of these diseases, now are blamed for their return. What is behind this paradox?

Johnny's experience is typical. One morning he awakened his mother complaining of severe throbbing pain in the right ear. The family doctor was consulted and when he found inflammation, gave a "shot" of penicillin but did not open the drum. "I would like to see Johnny again tomorrow," said the physician as they left the office.

The next day the boy looked and felt so well Mother decided he was out of danger. Her reasoning appeared sound until the weekend when earache returned and the lad's temperature zoomed to 105 degrees. The drum broke en route to the physician's office and Johnny was in real trouble.

At this stage he was worse off than the child of a generation ago when the medico routinely opened the drum surgically, which was better than spontaneous rupture of the structure.

Bacteria reach the internal ear via the eustachian tube. The opening of this passage is in the vault of the throat, in the center of the adenoidal area. Whenever a cold, sinusitis, or tonsillitis exists, the causative organisms congregate in or pass by these openings. They are forced into the passageway if the nose is blown improperly.

When using a handkerchief keep both nostrils open to reduce pressure in back of the nose. Nasal secretions also are forced into the eustachian tube when diving or swimming under water and descending from a high altitude.

The drum keeps germs from entering the middle ear through the outer canal. It is a tough structure but can be broken when external pressure is increased through fist-cuffs, heavy explosions, surf bathing, or skull fracture. Insertion of a toothpick, paper clip, or caustic material into the ear canal leads to the same risk.

The modern physician has more weapons to combat ear disease than ever before in the history of medicine. But, to be effective, they must be used properly.

CHICAGO — A good many Vice-Presidents have been picked in smoke-filled rooms in the past, but this one should be an exception.

You can hear all sorts of stories about VP hopefuls who have the nod from Adlai, but the real fact is that Adlai wants a wide-open convention—at least as far as the Vice Presidency is concerned. Naturally he figures that it's a closed convention as far as he and the No. 1 spot are concerned.

But a good hot rebel-yell floor fight for the Vice Presidency would stir up TV interest in what may otherwise be a dragging political circus. Also, Adlai advisers are not unaware that a hot Democratic battle would be a healthy contrast to Len Hall's cut-and-dried Nixon-is-it strategy at San Francisco.

So if the Democrats can't arouse audience interest in the main ring of the Chicago circus, maybe they can for the VP sideshows.

Adlai has said nice things to all of the top VP contenders—Humphrey, Kefauver and Kennedy; he has encouraged all three privately and individually, has expressed no preferences.

Here is some of the backstage VP byplay that's been going on in Chicago.

CIO's Walter Reuther has put in a big fat plug with Stevenson for Senator Humphrey. He thinks the rough-and-tumble Minnesotan is the tough campaigner svelte Stevenson needs as a partner. Dorothy Schiff, publisher of the New York Post, talked to Stevenson about Kefauver, said Kefauver could bring him more votes than any other running-mate. "I'm only concerned," said the aloof Adlai, "as to whether he'll make a good Vice President." Stevenson advisers have been greatly impressed with Kefauver's popularity in the Midwest where their man is weakest. Jake More, astute Democratic leader from Iowa who organized the Midwest Democratic Conference reported there is great apathy toward Adlai in the Midwest. Other Democrats said Adlai couldn't carry the Midwest despite the farm revolt against Ike, but Kefauver could. Farmers think Adlai is too precise, too "cited." They want a man in the White House who won't sling one-dollar words, but tractor grease and cow manure. Harriman isn't too popular in the Midwest either, but much more so than Stevenson. Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts, say farm delegates, is sure death. He voted with Benson against rigid farm price supports.

Adlai and Harry

For a few days this week, the telephone line between Chicago and Kansas City was busier than between any other two points in the USA. It was kept so by Stevenson people trying to woo and win the potent, sometimes prolific, frequently prolix Harry Truman. The airlines to Kansas City were also busy.

One Adlai emissary who went to Kansas City to woo and win Mr. Truman was his old Secretary of the Interior, Oscar Chapman. Oscar checked over the lineup of delegates, state by state, with Truman, tried to persuade his old boss there was no chance to stop Stevenson, urged him not to stick out his neck for Averell Harriman.

Truman in part agreed. He said that Adlai had made a good impression on him the last time he talked to him in Chicago, just after Truman returned from Europe.

But he added, "If there's any way for Averell Harriman to win I'd like to help him."

Stevenson himself also got in touch with the ex-President, obviously worried about his support. Bill Boyle, former Democratic National Chairman, also talked to his old chief, urged him not to buck the tide, argued that Stevenson couldn't be stopped.

On the other hand, India Edwards, former vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, now a great Harriman boost-

The Straddler

By Brother Barnabas

The gymnastic stunt of carrying water on both shoulders has been tried many times, but always with the same result: it can't be done.

Yet the politicians are willing to give it a fling under the familiar technique of straddling, otherwise known as playing both ends against the middle.

Instead of meeting an issue head on and disposing of it in outright fashion they bandy it about over the country, air it pro and con before the hustings, hear what the proponents and the opponents have to say in an effort to please everybody.

And when the original proposition in its modified form is submitted to the electorate in true democratic fashion it is found to be a babel of compromises and contradictions that pleases nobody, and so we have another example of the futility of trying to carry water on several shoulders.

Just now the eyes and ears of all Americans are turned toward Chicago and San Francisco where in sequence tournaments will be held to decide who in either party shall carry the campaign jug and on which shoulder and whether it shall contain anything stronger than aqua pura.

After that it will be a juggernaut between the donkey and the elephant for which we the spectators will pay $10 million, but what is that when we can get it back in 1959 when prosperity returns?

Political parties are a necessary evil; they make up a man's mind for him and so relieve him of that responsibility. A word to the wives is sufficient.

Then if ever anything goes wrong you can blame it on the party in power who have straddled so many issues that their future is not bright, and they can only hope that that classical bromide "Now is the time for all good men to come to the help of the party" will have sufficient appeal to pull their chestnuts out of the fire.

You can fool half the people some of the time, and the other half all the time. And there are many who don't have to be fooled at all; they were born that way.

There are three constants in every political convention—the platform, the candidates and the ballyhoo.

The platform is an anthology of arrogance, pride and prejudice gathered from all eras of political history, for the use of barnstormers in campaigning for the ticket.

The Democrats hark back to Thomas Jefferson, the "Father of Democracy" who wrote the Declaration of Independence. And when he was elected President he rode up to the Capitol, hitched his horse to a post, and walked into the building without any ceremonies whatever.

Whatever became of that horse nobody knows. But it may have appeared as a survival at a later date in one of the boggy stories that flourished when America was backwoods.

(I quote:) A traveler floundering through the mire of a cypress swamp in Ohio saw a beaver hat lying crown upward in the mud. It moved, and he lifted it with his whip. Underneath was a man's head—a laughing head that cried, "Hello, stranger!" The traveler offered his assistance, but the head declined, saying that he had a good horse under him.

A horse is a better symbol of political progress than an automobile. The horse has sense; the auto hasn't. A candidate had a Cadillac in his left eye and went to the clinic to have it removed.

After that he rode a horse in Jeffersonian simplicity and was elected.

A platform is what you stand on till you can enter the political omnibus: what you stand for is evident by what you do after you get in. All the rest is gobbledygook.

Teddy Roosevelt was no straddler. He said, "I can do one of two things: I can be President of the United States or I can control Alice. I cannot possibly do both."

Nicholas Longworth, affable Congressman and Speaker of the House and noted parliamentarian, came along and saved the country by marrying Alice on February 17, 1906. Thereafter when Alice would rise to a point of order Nick would say, "The point of order is sustained." It would better be.

Monday next the Demos in Chicago will cross bats with the San Francisco team. Eisenhower will be on the mound and Nixon behind the plate.

Stevenson steps up and takes his stance waiting for the pitch. He swings for two strikes and three balls while Knowland and Leonard Hall are warming up in the bull pen.

Then Adlai sends the pill in a beautiful ricochet that looks like a three-bagger. It is intercepted by Stassen, who hurls it to Herter, who in turn bounds it on to Nixon for a put-out.

The game is called as the dark approaches, with no runs, no hits, and plenty of errors.

Cities Collecting And Spending More

In 1955 the country's 481 cities having more than 25,000 inhabitants had total revenues of $8 billion, expenditures of $8.3 billion and outstanding debts of $13.2 billion. At the end of the year they had collected more money and spent more money than in any other year in history—and owed more money than ever before.

These cities' revenues in the aggregate were 6.5 per cent higher than in 1954. The same increase was shown in their spending. And there was an 8.3 per cent rise in the cities' total debt.

Municipalities included in the Bureau of Census study account for about four-fifths of all city government revenues and expenditures. In property taxes their receipts were $3 billion, a per capita figure of $49.19, and an increase of 4.1 per cent over 1954. The total of "general revenues"—with amounts pertaining to municipally-operated utilities and employee pension plans excluded—was $6.4 billion, an increase during the year of 6.8 per cent and a per capita amount of $102.88.

"General" expenditures by the 481 cities were $6.4 billion in 1955. In every classification spending was higher than in the preceding year. And while "times" generally were considered better last year—possibly because of that fact—the biggest percentage of increase in municipal outlays was under the heading of public welfare.

However, on a per capita basis the outlay for education, at $17.80, led the list. Sanitation, street and highways, police protection, health and hospitals, fire protection, public welfare, and recreation followed in that order.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Adult Delinquents

J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI recently said on a broadcast, "a criminal is not born—a criminal is made."

Except for the very few who are idiots or morons, because of damage to the brain, most children would grow up wholesome members of society, if they were not corrupted in the years of their upbringing.

The Board of Education of New York City is facing precisely this problem and is having a tough time of it because of the multi-religious character of the city's population and the competition among the various religious groups.

In 1951, the New York State Board of Regents adopted a "Statement of Moral and Spiritual Training in the Schools." In 1953, the New York City Board of Education passed two resolutions on this subject, one of which required each day to begin with the "Pledge of Allegiance" and the singing of the fourth stanza of "America." When I read this resolution, I was shocked because when I went to New York City's public schools we always started the day with the "Pledge of Allegiance." It never occurred to me that anybody would have had the temerity to drop this essential affirmation of belonging and of loyalty.

The other resolution had to do with "...insuring that such curriculum includes appropriate programs of instruction reflecting the spiritual interest and patriotic motivations of our pioneering ancestors, the devotion and self-sacrifice of the Founding Fathers and their abiding belief in the principles of democracy."

In the document on this subject, issued July 1956, the statement is made that "Religious education and training are not functions of state-supported schools. Religious education and training are the exclusive responsibility of the home, church and synagogue..."

This is stated with too much finality, although in New York those who must face every municipal function as a political problem, nothing else can be said. But parents have to view the question differently. The child spends five or six hours a day at school and sometimes many more. It is inconceivable that during those many hours, the child should be altogether without religious education, without moral teachings, without ethical precepts. The fear of one religious group that another might be more attractive or present its case more attractively does not take into consideration the welfare of the child but rather the numerical strength of its votaries. So, the statement says:

"...It is neither a function nor a prerogative of the public schools to teach religion or to indoctrinate pupils with the tenets, doctrines or dogmas of any religion, of any sect, or of secularism. This is a simple reaffirmation of a prized and basic characteristic of America's legal and constitutional heritage."

But it has been the prized and fundamental characteristic of America's legal and constitutional heritage to teach religion and a morality based on religion in our schools. All one needs to do is to read the early school readers of this country or to take the McGuffey Readers which strengthened the characters of millions of Americans at the time of this nation's greatest period of up-building. No one taught anything sectarian; they taught religion. Nobody used the school to proselytize; they taught God and His law of life.

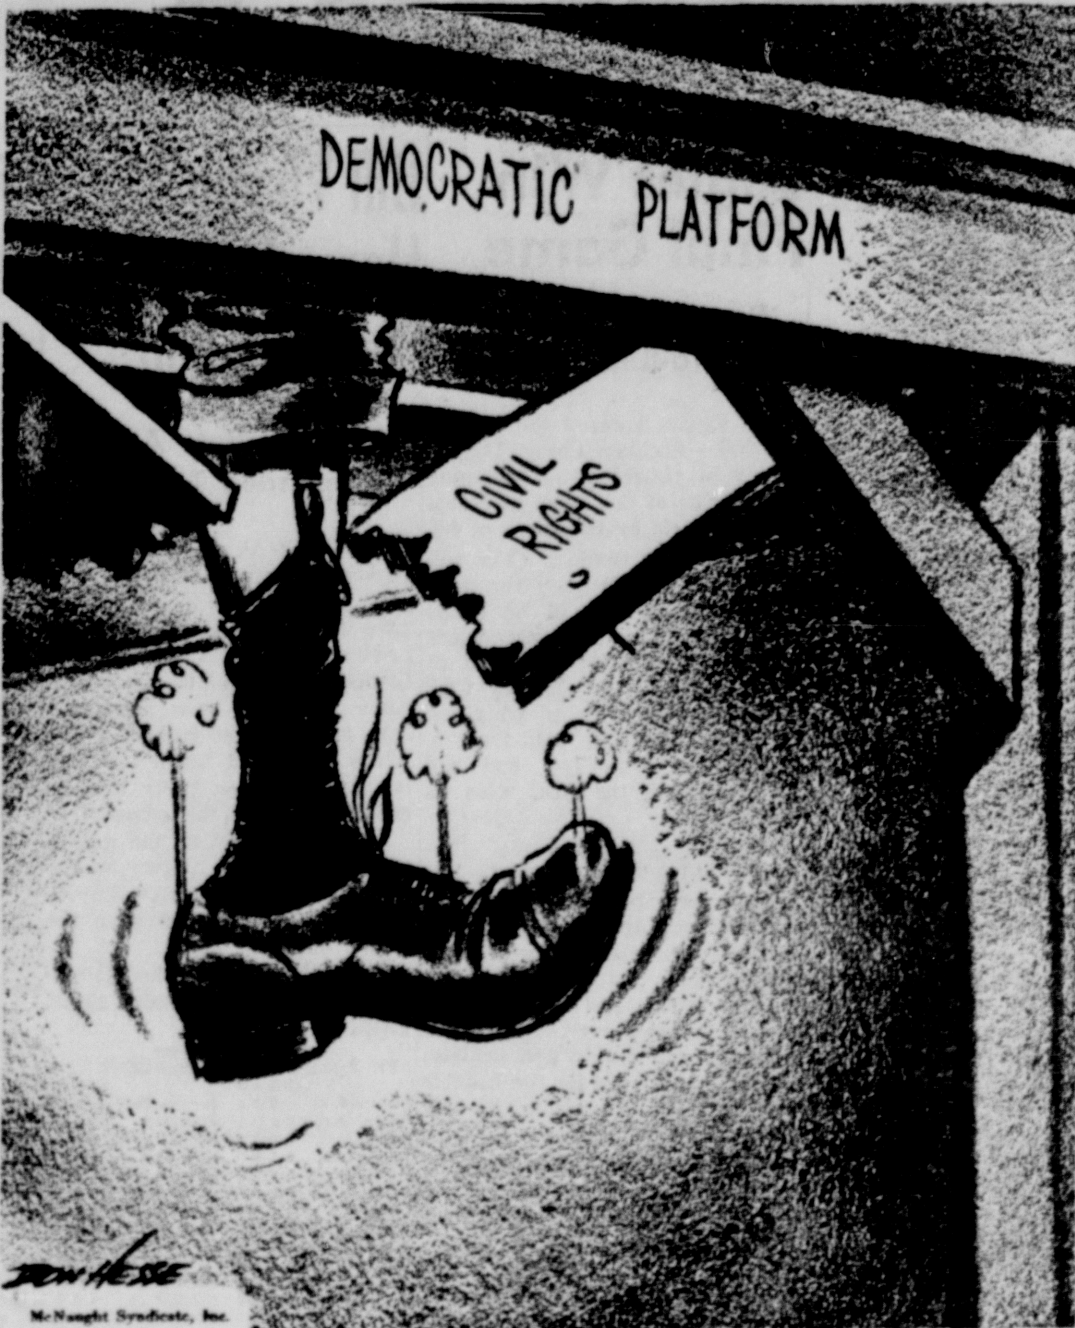

J. Edgar Hoover has stated the results of the change of attitude:

"Now as to the seriousness of the problem, I think I can point out to you that in 1955 one out of every 35 youths between the ages of 10 and 17 was arrested. Five hundred seventy-six thousand persons under the age of 18 were taken into custody in the United States. This happens to be an increase of 11 per cent over the previous calendar year. At the present time the record shows that 42 per cent of all persons arrested for major crimes are persons under the age of 18, and of that number, more than one-half are under the age of 15."

These are the cold facts of our society in which sectarianism has taken the place of religion, politics the place of morality, materialism the place of God. The increase in juvenile delinquency can only convict the adults who corrupt their own children by withholding from them God's gift of moral law which alone can guide human beings, of whatever faith, to the moral life. Human experience has established that for it there is no substitute.

There's That Plank Again

Dulles Is Right In Not Letting Newsmen Go To China

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Secretary Dulles is getting some brickbats for it, but he is eternally right in insisting that American newsmen should not be granted any preference over other Americans who wish to pursue their particular businesses on the territory of Communist China.

The government of the United States has a definite policy, which is to refuse passports to any American who wishes to go to the mainland of China. Permission, for example, was refused to the parents of the American fliers who were imprisoned by Red China. The Red China government invited them. It was a tough thing to have to refuse parents a chance to see their loved ones. Similar permission has been withheld from businessmen seeking to make deals with the Red Chinese in disregard of existing embargoes on trade.

Newsmen naturally feel they are in a different class and that, in seeking information, they are not engaging in business, but, so far as the Department of State is concerned, it must treat all Americans alike, whether they are in the publishing business or the grain business. It cannot today let Americans engaged in the newspaper business pursue their work in Red China and tomorrow turn down the requests for similar privileges sought by other Americans engaged in other businesses who may wish to enter Red China for brief or prolonged visits.

An argument can, of course, be made that the newsmen will bring out new facts, that they will not be "brainwashed" and that they will be objective and impartial. But the State Department cannot be concerned with the quality of the work that might be done by any American. It is not refusing to validate passports just because it is in any way afraid that American newsmen will be unduly influenced. What it is afraid of is that, if the doors are opened to one set of Americans, they must be opened to all other Americans in business, and this is not considered a desirable step to take at this time.

One reason for the policy is that the Red China government has refused to release imprisoned Americans, notwithstanding solemn promises given more than a year ago that this would be done. Another reason is that the United States, as a member of the United Nations, is really in a state of war with the Red China government. Even members of the Neutral Commission, like Sweden and Switzerland, who were supervising the Korean War armistice signed at Panmunjom have not been permitted to go north of the armistice line to make the inspections which the armistice agreement expressly provided for.

Under such circumstances, the invitation by the Red China government is plainly a propaganda trick which the United States government must expose as such and must insist in transparently insincere. For there are hundreds of Americans still in jail there—the exact number is unknown—and Red China refuses to let any neutral Red Cross personnel go in to find out the truth.

Strictly speaking, the United States government is obligated to protect the lives and property of its nationals abroad. If those citizens to whom passports are issued are made captive, they can, in accordance with tradition, rely on the armed forces of the United States to come to their rescue. It doesn't help the State Department at this time to say that in all probability the Communist Chinese wouldn't really harm the American newsmen if they went to China. The State Department couldn't make a convincing case to the American people later on if harm befell the American newsmen—it couldn't say that the Department let them enter a war area on the supposition that the Red Chinese leaders would refrain from doing them harm. The record of the Peking regime is the record of gangsters in government. Pledges and agreements have been broken right along.

But supposing every American newsmen would sign a waiver of liability and free his government from any obligation to protect him or to intercede for him if he were taken prisoner, so that all newsmen who entered would be doing so at their own risk, it might be asked if this would satisfy the State Department. Middle Ear Infections Now Becoming More Common

Twenty years ago there was a marked decrease in the number of middle ear infections (otitis media). Mastoiditis, the number one complication, became so rare that most medical students went through school without seeing a case.

But the pendulum is swinging back again. The wonder drugs, which were given credit for reducing the incidence of these diseases, now are blamed for their return. What is behind this paradox?

Johnny's experience is typical. One morning he awakened his mother complaining of severe throbbing pain in the right ear. The family doctor was consulted and when he found inflammation, gave a "shot" of penicillin but did not open the drum. "I would like to see Johnny again tomorrow," said the physician as they left the office.

The next day the boy looked and felt so well Mother decided he was out of danger. Her reasoning appeared sound until the weekend when earache returned and the lad's temperature zoomed to 105 degrees. The drum broke en route to the physician's office and Johnny was in real trouble.

At this stage he was worse off than the child of a generation ago when the medico routinely opened the drum surgically, which was better than spontaneous rupture of the structure.

Bacteria reach the internal ear via the eustachian tube. The opening of this passage is in the vault of the throat, in the center of the adenoidal area. Whenever a cold, sinusitis, or tonsillitis exists, the causative organisms congregate in or pass by these openings. They are forced into the passageway if the nose is blown improperly.

When using a handkerchief keep both nostrils open to reduce pressure in back of the nose. Nasal secretions also are forced into the eustachian tube when diving or swimming under water and descending from a high altitude.

The drum keeps germs from entering the middle ear through the outer canal. It is a tough structure but can be broken when external pressure is increased through fistulitis, heavy explosions, surf bathing, or skull fracture. Insertion of

"Did you post him for court martial?" asked the general. "I could hardly do that," admitted the colonel. "He was reading my book!"

Stevenson Favors Wide-Open Battle For Vice Presidential Nomination

By Drew Pearson

CHICAGO — A good many Vice-Presidents have been picked in smoke-filled rooms in the past, but this one should be an exception.

You can hear all sorts of stories about VP hopefuls who have the nod from Adlai, but the real fact is that Adlai wants a wide-open convention—at least as far as the Vice Presidency is concerned. Naturally he figures that it's a closed convention as far as he and the No. 1 spot are concerned.

But a good hot rebel-yell floor fight for the Vice Presidency would stir up TV interest in what may otherwise be a dragging political circus. Also, Adlai advisers are not unaware that a hot Democratic battle would be a healthy contrast to Len Hall's cut-and-dried Nixon-is-it strategy at San Francisco.

So if the Democrats can't arouse audience interest in the main ring of the Chicago circus, maybe they can for the VP sideshows.

Adlai has said nice things to all of the top VP contenders—Humphrey, Kefauver and Kennedy; he has encouraged all three privately and individually, has expressed no preferences.

Here is some of the backstage VP byplay that's been going on in Chicago.

CIO's Walter Reuther has put in a big fat plug with Stevenson for Senator Humphrey. He thinks the rough-and-tumble Minnesotan is the tough campaigner svelte Stevenson needs as a partner. Dorothy Schiff, publisher of the New York Post, talked to Stevenson about Kefauver, said, Kefauver could bring him more votes than any other running-mate. "I'm only concerned," said the aloof Adlai, "as to whether he'll make a good Vice President." Stevenson advisers have been greatly impressed with Kefauver's popularity in the Midwest where their man is weakest. Jake More, astute Democratic leader from Iowa who organized the Midwest Democratic Conference reported there is great apathy toward Adlai in the Midwest. Other Democrats said Adlai couldn't carry the Midwest despite the farm revolt against Ike, but Kefauver could. Farmers think Adlai is too precise, too "cited." They want a man in the White House who won't sling one-dollar words, but tractor grease and cow manure. Harriman isn't too popular in the Midwest either, but much more so than Stevenson. Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts, say farm delegates, is sure death. He voted with Benson against rigid farm price supports.

Adlai and Harry For a few days this week, the telephone line between Chicago and Kansas City was busier than between any other two points in the USA. It was kept so by Stevenson people trying to woo and win the potent, sometimes prolific, frequently prolix Harry Truman. The airlines to Kansas City were also busy.

One Adlai emissary who went to Kansas City to woo and win Mr. Truman was his old Secretary of the Interior, Oscar Chapman. Truman in part agreed. He said that Adlai had made a good impression on him the last time he talked to him in Chicago, just after Truman returned from Europe. But, he added, "If there's any way for Averell Harriman to win I'd like to help him."

Stevenson himself also got in touch with the ex-President, obviously worried about his support. Bill Boyle, former Democratic National Chairman, also talked to his old chief, urged him not to buck the tide, argued that Stevenson couldn't be stopped.

On the other hand, India Edwards, former vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, now a great Harriman booster, tried to persuade Mr. Truman to stick with Averell. Harry replied that he "sure preferred" Averell, but was not ready yet to go out for him.

All this, of course, took place before the sprightly, crusty, sometime cantankerous ex-President of the United States arrived in Chicago. It indicates how much power H.S.T. still wields over the party which promoted him from a lowly Jackson County, Mo., magistrate to the highest office in the land.

Hubert And Adlai

Senator Humphrey of Minnesota got into the Vice Presidential race in an interesting, hitherto unrevealed manner. He hadn't meant to throw his hat in the ring, but Adlai Stevenson suggested it.

Here is what happened: Stevenson was talking to Humphrey at the farewell dinner for Senator George of Georgia and told him that he preferred as Vice President a senator rather than a governor. He said he needed a man with senate experience who not only could preside over the Senate, but help rally support for important administration measures.

"What about you?" said Adlai on the spur of the moment.

"I don't think I would stand a chance since I was beaten as a delegate of Minnesota," replied Senator Humphrey.

"That doesn't matter," replied Stevenson. "Why don't you get out and campaign for the job?"

Humphrey took Stevenson at his word, has opened headquarters at Chicago. Stevenson is still keeping neutral in the VP race, however.

Merry-Go-Round

Democratic wisecracks claim their chairman, Paul Butler, pulled a boner when he lengthened the Democratic Convention. Butler postponed the nominating speeches from Wednesday until Thursday, thereby giving delegates more time to get steamed up over civil rights.

One problem facing the Democrats is that newspapermen have to write news. When there isn't much hot news at a cut-and-dried convention, they stir it up. It was enterprising newspapermen who stirred up the civil rights rumormongering by taking Adlai Stevenson's toughened civil rights stand to Southern delegates and asking for comment.

The wise boys say that Butler should take a leaf from Len Hall's book, speed up the Convention and go home.

Middlecoff, Wininger Lead $100,000 Pro "World" Golf

Five Players Trail Leaders By One Stroke

Quintet Tied At 136; $50,000 Payoff To Winner On Sunday

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—Cary Middlecoff and Bo Wininger topped a par-smashing frolic today through the second round of Tam O'Shanter's $101,200 men's pro "World" golf tournament with 36-hole totals of 135, nine under regulation.

Wininger, the Odessa, Tex., pro who led the first round with a 7-under 65, dropped a six-foot birdie 3 putt on the last hole for a 34-36-70.

Middlecoff, the 1956 National Open champion and second leading money winner of the PGA circuit with $24,132, finished earlier with 35-34-69. He had a hectic front nine, 3-stroking three greens. But he settled down on the back side, dropping 12 and 15-foot birdie putts on the 12th and 13th and paring all others.

Wininger blew good chances to maintain sole possession of the lead with a bogey 6 on No. 9, after wasting a shot in a trap, and with a bogey 5 on the 17th after leaving himself short and chipping poorly. Lead By One Stroke

But the two leaders held only a one-stroke edge in the 72-hole round for Sunday's championship payoff of $50,000 as 51 in a field of 93 were under par for the distance. Crowding Middlecoff and Wininger at 136 were Peter Thomson, Jerry Barber, Pete Cooper, Ernie Ball and Ted Kroll.

Ball, a 45-year-old club pro at Oak Park, Ill., fired a 34-36-70 and Kroll, runner-up in the national PGA this year, banged out 34-35-69.

The leathery-faced Cooper, a Floridian whose summer residence is Birmingham, Mich., scored a 36-38-69 on the second round with the help of an eagle 3 on the 475-yard 10th.

Barber, the 5-5, 137-pound mite from Los Angeles, posted 35-33-68. He scored an eagle 3 on the 515-yard 15th.

Thomson Posts 68
Thomson, 26, winner of the British Open the last three years, fashioned 36-32-68. His great second nine included birdies on the two long holes, an 18-foot putt for 3 on No. 12 and another birdie 3 on the 375-yard No. 17 with a nine-iron approach one inch from the cup.

Others on the move in one of the greatest sub-par displays of a major tournament were Johnny Palmer, the 1949 "world" champion and Herman Scharlau, registering from Lemont, Ill. They were locked in the 137 bracket after firing 68 and 69, respectively.

At 139 were Jack Fleck, the 1953 national Open winner, with 68; Ed "Porky" Oliver, with 70; Bob Toski, the 1954 "World" winner, with 70, and Bob Rosburg with a torrid 66.

Joining the group of 137 shooters were Bill Nary with a 70 and Billy Maxwell, a colleague of Wininger's at Odessa, Tex., with a 69. The 139 list also included Tony Holguin of Chicago and Mike Fitchick of Mahopac, N.Y.

Among those dropping far off the pace were Jack Burke, Masters and National PGA champion, and leading money winner Dow Finsterwald, each with 141; defending "World" champion Julius Boros with 142 and Sam Snead with 144.

Mickey Sets Pace
Mickey Wright, long-hitting golfer from Chula Vista, Calif., maintained her lead in the $15,000 tournament for women pros with a 36-39-75 second round and a halfway total of 146, 6 under par.

Meanwhile, players in the amateur section of the "World" also got into the act. Ward Wetlaufer of Buffalo, N.Y., 20-year-old golf captain at Hamilton College in Clinton, N.Y., peeled off a 35-33-68 for 143 and the 36-hole lead among men amateurs.

Anne Richardson, slender 20-year-old blonde from Columbus, Ohio, forged a women amateur course record of 34-36-70 for 149 and top spot in her bracket. Anne's six-under-par toppled the mark of 71 credited to Wiffi Smith in 1954.

Mantle's Blow Wins For Yanks

Double In Ninth Tops Orioles, 5-4

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—Mickey Mantle doubled home Billy Martin with an unearned run in the bottom of the ninth inning tonight to give the New York Yankees a 5-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles before a crowd of 18,868. Tom Sturdivant picked up his 10th victory in relief of Whitey Ford and Billy Loes was the loser. The win maintained the Yankee lead of 8½ games over the second place Boston Red Sox.

Groza Kicks Four Field Goals, Browns Drub Collegians, 26-0

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 (AP)—Lou Groza, 32-year-old, 240-pound pro veteran of 11 seasons, methodically booted a record four field goals to lead the Cleveland Browns to a dull 26-0 victory over the College All-Stars before 75,000 at Soldier Field tonight.

After the Browns, 14-point favorites, scored the game's first touchdown on a 13-yard pass from George Ratterman to halfback Fred Morrison early in the first period.

That gave Groza scoring honors with 14 points and broke the former high of three field goals in an All-Star game. Tad Weed of Ohio State kicked three for the All-Stars in last year's 30-27 upset of the Browns.

JACK RICE, popular Fort Hill athlete of recent years and University of Maryland grad, is a member of the USS Boston (Guided Missile Cruiser) team that won the "Forces A Float League" championship last week.

The Boston won the playoffs by beating the USS Forrestal (aircraft carrier) 4-3, the USS Coral Sea (aircraft carrier) 2-0, on a no-hitter, lost to the Coral Sea, 10-9, and finally beat the same team by the score of 9-3 for the title.

Cliff Finnegan, semi-pro pitcher of Washington, D. C., was the Boston's mound ace. Rice led the club in batting during the regular season with an average of .500 by connecting for 18 hits in 36 trips to the plate. He played left field.

The Boston will play next in the Batt-Cru-Lant tourney which is the Battleship-Cruiser of the Atlantic Fleet in the Norfolk area. "If we could win this one we will earn a trip to New London, Conn., to represent the South in the finals," Jack writes.

Rice went into the Navy March 8 via the Cumberland-Selective Service Board. He was in boot camp for nine weeks at Bainbridge and after 14 days leave he reported aboard the USS Boston at Norfolk, June 5.

Jack says he was going to give the Norfolk Tars football team a try but that would eliminate his "Med" cruise on November 19 so he expects to "see the world" this year and give football a try in 1957.

A product of the Sunday School Basketball League and Grace Methodist quints, Rice was on football, basketball and track teams at Fort Hill where he was graduated in 1951. He also played a lot of softball with local sandlot clubs.

Ralph W. "Doggie" Rice, his father, now an Oldtown Road grocer, will be remembered as a football and cage star at old ACHS on Greene street in the 1920s. Jack's mother, who was Claudine McCullough, also was a big name in girls basketball at old Allegany High.

Mrs. G. WILLIAM BIBBY, Cumberland Country Club ace, participated in the 54-hole invitation golf tourney at the Farmington Country Club, Charlottesville, Va., this week and turned in a card of 86-89-28-23.

Marge Burns (no relation) of Greensboro, N. C., was the winner, finishing 10 strokes ahead of the field with a 241.

TED WILLIAMS' spitting tantrums at Fenway Park are a reminder that once upon a time Cumberland got rid of a good ball player because he had "rabbit ears."

It happened in 1927 when the Colts won their first Middle Atlantic League pennant.

John "Shine" Cortazzo, classy shortstop, used to get an unmerciful riding from the bleachers whenever he booted one. "Shine" made seemingly hard chances look easy but the slow rollers were the ones that brought about his downfall.

When the fans got on him Cortazzo had the nasty habit of thumbing his nose at them.

One afternoon he "booted" a grounder and then the "boots" cut loose. "Shine" picked up the ball and heaved it into the stands at his tormentors. Fortunately, his aim was bad but that throw wrote "finis" to Cortazzo's career here.

Adcock, Part-Time Player, Has 27 Homers For Braves

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 10 (AP)—If the Friday Night Debating Society runs out of genteel topics before adjournment, how about a little speculation on what might happen to National League home run records—if Joe Adcock could get a full time job with the Milwaukee Braves?

At the moment, the hard hitting Milwaukee slugger is second with 27 homers in the senior loop behind Brooklyn's Duke Snider.

But Snider works regularly, and Adcock has played a shade less than two-thirds of the time so far this season.

As a matter of fact, Adcock is only a hair behind Mickey Mantle's sensational American League pace, and before today's games the Yankee whacker has 11 home runs ahead of Babe Ruth's 1927 record rate. The Bambino hit 60. Mantle has hit 39. But he's been at bat 379 times. That figures out to be roughly one home run out of just under 10 at bats. Adcock has been up 273 times. One home run, that is, for each 10 1-9 times at bat. Snider, up 372 times, turns out to have a record for 1-out-of-12.

Playoffs in the County Softball League will get under way next week with single games scheduled on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Melody Manor, second place finisher, and fourth place Burke's of Kennell's Mill will open their best-of-three series Tuesday at Barreille where C. Snider, J. Michaels and L. Potomac Valley's Old Germans, pennant winners, will play host to third place Stringtown Wednesday at Triple Lakes in the opener of their series. The arbiters will be K. Grimes, Joe Geatz and B. Frantz. The second game is set for Friday at Stringtown with C. Snider, J. Michaels and L. Stalter officiating.

Potomac Valley won the pennant and also the playoffs last season. All games are scheduled for 6 p. m., with a grace period extended only to 6:15.

Frisch Suffers Heart Attack

Former Major Star Reported Critical

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y., Aug. 10 (AP)—Frankie Frisch, member of baseball's Hall of Fame and former major league manager, today was in critical condition at New Rochelle Hospital suffering from a heart attack. He is 57 years old.

Hospital officials declined to divulge the nature of Frisch's illness but friends who talked with Mrs. Frisch said the former major league star suffered a coronary attack last night.

Frisch, who came out of Fordham University to make the Giants varsity in his first year, 1920, remained with the New York National League club through the 1926 season when he was traded to St. Louis. He finished his playing career with the Cardinals in 1937.

The old Fordham Flash managed the Cardinals, Pirates and Cubs in the National League. Under his management the Cardinals won a pennant in 1934.

Haddix Fans Snider With 3 On In Ninth

BROOKLYN, Aug. 10 (AP)—Southpaw Harvey Haddix, coming on in ninth-inning relief of young Jack Meyer, struck out Duke Snider with the bases loaded to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 victory over the second place Brooklyn Dodgers tonight.

Meyer, a 23-year-old righthander who hadn't started a game since May 22 of last year, gave the world champions just four hits and struck out eight before walking Sandy Amoros to open the ninth.

Laddie came on, retiring pinch-hitter Chico Fernandez on a sacrifice, losing pinchhitter Jackie Robinson on a walk and then intentionally walking Peeewe Reese, after Junior Gilliam grounded out, to load the bases and get to Snider.

The Duke missed a third strike on a 1-and-2 pitch.

Chicago opened up a 1-0 lead in the fourth on a walk, Minnie Minoso's single and a sacrifice fly. The Sox broke the contest open with four runs in the eighth off Tiger starter Paul Foytack. Eagles Win Final Game

Down Caseys, 6-2, For 16-8 Record

The Eagles lowered the curtain on their Rocking Chair League campaign yesterday by trimming the Knights of Columbus at Naval Reserve Field by the score of 6-2.

Whether the Outdoor Club will finish in first place or the race will end in a tie will be determined Tuesday when ODC winds up its season with Celanese at Stutcher Field. The Outdoor Club leads the race with 16 wins and 7 losses. The Eagles hold the runner-up spot with 16-8 and will finish there if the ODC wins its final contest.

The Eagles combed the offerings of "Bud" Law for eight hits in yesterday's tilt with Lou "Rock" Rattenni pitting the attack with two hits in as many official trips. Fritz Palmer and Woody Woodson banged triples and Clay Ingram rapped a two-bagger. Young had a homer and double and Scaletta a homer and single for the Knights who wound up the season with only two wins and 22 losses.

Larry Geiger and Charley Steiner of the Caseys and Rattenni and "Chug" Aman of the Eagles were the fielding stars.

Rosewall Upset By Richardson In Net Tourney

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J., Aug. 10 (AP)—Ham Richardson raised U. S. Davis Cup hopes with a 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 victory over Ken Rosewall, the Australian Davis Cup standby, in the quarter-final of the Eastern Grass Court tournament today.

Richardson, virtually clinching a place on the U. S. team that is expected to face the Aussies in the challenge round in December, moved into the semifinal with Vic Seixas and two other Australians. Neale Fraser and Ashley Cooper. Seixas, the top-seeded American from Philadelphia, ousted Sid Schwartz, Long Beach, N.Y., to gain tomorrow's semifinal match with Fraser, who rallied to eliminate Paul Remy of France, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5.

Richardson, Westfield, N.J., will meet Cooper, who ripped Jack Frost, Monterey, Calif., 7-5, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10 (INS) — When "The Buster Keaton Story" is completed at Paramount it won't be the end of the association between Donald O'Connor and Buster Keaton. The dead-pan former comic, who has been working in an advisory capacity with Don on the filming of Keaton's life story, joins O'Connor in Spain early next year.

The story they will do, temporarily titled "The Little Man," will be for O'Connor's new independent company. The main character is a Keaton-type "Little Man," an ex-bullfighter who hangs around the rings trying to amuse the fans with his buffoonery.

When Don sat next to me at Jack's At The Beach the other night he told me, "Buster is one of the most brilliant comedy technicians I have ever known. He should continue to be active in picture making."

Jack Lemmon was hit in the eye and painfully, if not seriously injured when a light exploded on the "Fire Down Below" set in London. Both Rita Hayworth and Bob Mitchum were working in the scene but they were not struck.

Young Lemmon, who won last year's Oscar for his work in "Mr. Roberts," was taken to the studio hospital and later to a London oculist. He won't be able to work until Monday and as he is in most of the remaining scenes, the company has closed down for over the weekend.

Burt Lancaster and Harold Hecht deny that either Jane Wyman or Deborah Kerr is too choice for "Lucy Crown." Irwin Shaw's novel, for one thing, Deborah has done so many of these good-woman-gone-wrong characters, she's been a rut taking on another like Shaw's heroine. The production isn't scheduled '57, anyway.

However, well known writer Helen Deutsch meets with Hecht-Lancaster next week on the possibility of scripting "Lucy Crown."

a job that will take a bit of doing censorwise since it deals with a young boy tattling to papa about mamma's fling with a young athlete.

It was the combination of an attack of acute bursitis and fatigue from the intense heat which hospitalized Elizabeth Taylor and caused two days' delay in shooting "Raintree County" in Danville, Kentucky. With co-star Montgomery Clift just up and around after his automobile accident, this company's schedule reads like a clinic report.

Bursitis or not, Liz—on being released from the hospital, left well enough to dine with Monty at a downtown Danville restaurant which was mobbed by excited fans. He looks more wan than she, according to my eyewitness.

The local belles are also casting an interested eye in the direction of Rod Taylor—but he keeps on phoning Theona Bryant in Hollywood.

Hollywood in shorts: The Robert Cummings are expecting little Cummings No. 5 in February—and they'd like a boy.

For a couple who just got themselves divorced, Aldo Ray and Jeff Donnell looked very happy over a couple of steaks at the Beef Easter Inn.

Merle Oberon sizzling all the way from Paris over being quoted as saying "Hollywood is through. I'm going to live in Europe." Explodes Merle via cable: "I never said it. Hollywood has given me most of the best things of my career, including my lovely home there."

Congratulations to producer Bill Thomas who celebrates his birthday and his 33 years in movies tomorrow. He doesn't look a year of it.

Rosemary Clooney and Jose Ferrer who wanted a girl got a girl when tiny Maria Providencia made her debut at St. John's Hospital Thursday.

Quote from a review on Libera's concert at the Dallas fair: "Not since George M. Cohan, waving an American flag, made his appearance here years ago, has there been such a wild noise as greeted the one-name pianist from Hollywood."

John Stinberg, retired manager of the Hillcrest Country Club, was feted here today with a surprise birthday luncheon.

Henderson Avenue Traffic Light System Contract Is Signed Here

The City Council Thursday night in legislative session prior to budget discussions voted authority for Mayor Roy W. Eves to sign a contract providing for a synchronized traffic light system on Henderson Avenue.

The council had agreed to hold a legislative session to pass on this agreement with the State Roads Commission and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Specifically, the contract will have the railroad installing at its expense traffic lights along Henderson Avenue at Valley, Pear and Knox streets.

These will be coordinated with the automatic crossing gates to be placed at these three crossings.

The original contract had to be revamped as the State Roads Commission wanted the lights to be synchronized so that when there is a train on the track the green signal will be given to traffic on the boulevard.

The SRC plan was discussed and approved earlier this week by Mayor Eves, William V. Keegan, police and fire commissioner, and Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer.

But when the plan was presented Thursday night, William H. Buchholz, street commissioner, was concerned about the movement of traffic on the streets leading onto Henderson Avenue when the traffic signals stay green on the avenue.

There was considerable discussion along this line, and finally the motion was passed. The B&O will pay for the installation of these lights, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan pointed out. When in operation, the system will be turned over to the city for maintenance. The city has always maintained traffic signals on state routes within its limits, Mayor Eves pointed out. John J. Long, finance commissioner, stated that he felt there should be an addition to the motion, in which the plan should have the approval of the police commissioner.

LAST TIMES TODAY

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10 (INS) — When "The Buster Keaton Story" is completed at Paramount it won't be the end of the association between Donald O'Connor and Buster Keaton. The dead-pan former comic, who has been working in an advisory capacity with Don on the filming of Keaton's life story, joins O'Connor in Spain early next year.

The story they will do, temporarily titled "The Little Man," will be for O'Connor's new independent company. The main character is a Keaton-type "Little Man," an ex-bullfighter who hangs around the rings trying to amuse the fans with his buffoonery.

When Don sat next to me at Jack's At The Beach the other night he told me, "Buster is one of the most brilliant comedy technicians I have ever known. He should continue to be active in picture making."

Jack Lemmon was hit in the eye and painfully, if not seriously injured when a light exploded on the "Fire Down Below" set in London. Both Rita Hayworth and Bob Mitchum were working in the scene but they were not struck.

Young Lemmon, who won last year's Oscar for his work in "Mr. Roberts," was taken to the studio hospital and later to a London oculist. He won't be able to work until Monday and as he is in most of the remaining scenes, the company has closed down for over the weekend.

Burt Lancaster and Harold Hecht deny that either Jane Wyman or Deborah Kerr is top choice for "Lucy Crown," Irwin Shaw's novel. For one thing, Deborah has done so many of these good-woman-gone-wrong characters, she's been in a rut taking on another like Shaw's heroine. The production isn't scheduled until '57, anyway.

However, well known writer Helen Deutsch meets with Hecht-Lancaster next week on the possibility of scripting "Lucy Crown."

a job that will take a bit of doing censorwise since it deals with a young boy tattling to papa about mamma's fling with a young athlete.

It was the combination of an attack of acute buritis and fatigue from the intense heat which hospitalized Elizabeth Taylor and caused two days' delay in shooting "Raintree County" in Danville, Kentucky. With co-star Montgomery Clift just up and around after his automobile accident, this company's schedule reads like a clinic report.

Bursitis or not, Liz—on being released from the hospital, left well enough to dine with Monty at a downtown Danville restaurant which was mobbed by excited fans. He looks more wan than that she, according to my eyewitness.

The local belles are also casting an interested eye in the direction of Rod Taylor—but he keeps on phoning Theona Bryant in Hollywood.

Hollywood in shorts: The Robert Cummings are expecting little Cummings No. 5 in February—and they'd like a boy.

For a couple who just got themselves divorced, Aldo Ray and Jeff Donnell looked very happy over a couple of steaks at the Beef Easter Inn.

Merle Oberon sizzling all the way from Paris over being quoted as saying "Hollywood is through. I'm going to live in Europe." Explodes Merle via cable: "I never said it. Hollywood has given me most of the best things of my career, including my lovely home there."

Congratulations to producer Bill Thomas who celebrates his birthday and his 33 years in movies tomorrow. He doesn't look a year of it.

Rosemary Clooney and Jose Ferrer who wanted a girl got a girl when tiny Maria Providencia made her debut at St. John's Hospital Thursday.

Quote from a review on Libera's concert at the Dallas fair: "Not since George M. Cohan, waving an American flag, made his appearance here years ago, has there been such a wild noise as greeted the one-name pianist from Hollywood."

John Stinberg, retired manager of the Hillcrest Country Club, was feted there today with a surprise birthday luncheon.

That's all today.

Henderson Avenue Traffic Light System Contract Is Signed Here

The City Council Thursday night in legislative session prior to budget discussions voted authority for Mayor Roy W. Eves to sign a contract providing for a synchronized traffic light system on Henderson Avenue.

The council had agreed to hold a legislative session to pass on this agreement with the State Roads Commission and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Specifically, the contract will have the railroad installing at its expense traffic lights along Henderson Avenue at Valley, Pear and Knox streets.

These will be coordinated with the automatic crossing gates to be placed at these three crossings.

The original contract had to be revamped as the State Roads Commission wanted the lights to be synchronized so that when there is a train on the track the green signal will be given to traffic on the boulevard.

The SRC plan was discussed and approved earlier this week by Mayor Eves, William V. Keegan, police and fire commissioner, and Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer.

But when the plan was presented Thursday night, William H. Buchholz, street commissioner, was concerned about the movement of traffic on the streets leading onto Henderson Avenue when the traffic signals stay green on the avenue.

There was considerable discussion along this line, and finally the motion was passed.

The B&O will pay for the installation of these lights. City Attorney Thomas B. Finan pointed out. When in operation, the system will be turned over to the city for maintenance. The city has always maintained traffic signals on state routes within its limits, Mayor Eves pointed out.

John J. Long, finance commissioner, stated that he felt there should be an addition to the motion, in which the plan should have the approval of the police commissioner.

Black Market Has Gentle Decline On Small Volume

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—The stock market staged a gentle decline today on the smallest volume in nearly three weeks.

It was the narrowest market since July 2, with only 1,123 issues traded.

Pivotal issues fell from fractions to around 2 points or so except for international oils, whose losses stretched nearly to 6 points. A few selected issues gained.

Rail stocks, after their excellent advance of yesterday which almost singlehandedly led the market on a slight rise, wilted on profit-taking.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $1.00 to $189.50, with the industrials down $1.40, the rails down $1.10 and the utilities down 20 cents.

Of the total issues traded, 598 fell and 294 rose. There were 27 new highs for the year and 11 new lows.

Volume totaled 2,040,000 shares compared with 2,550,000 yesterday and was the lowest since July 23 when turnover was 1,970,000 shares.

Chest Campaign Goal Is Set At $137,286.68

Budget Requests Are Approved

The Cumberland Community Chest Executive Committee and campaign leaders yesterday announced the adoption of a goal of $137,286.68 for the 1956-57 drive in support of the nine local Red Feather agencies.

The Budget Committee reported yesterday that it recommended the goal at $137,286.68 on the basis of budgets prepared by the Chest agencies.

Simon Rosenbaum II, chairman, said the requests from the Chest's nine agencies were the minimum financial needs to continue their essential work in the community.

"After thorough examination," he said, "we found every agency's budget were carefully prepared, and the committee approved each request as it was presented. We found no items in any budget un-reasonable or unjustified by the agency or its representatives."

New Position Planned

The Executive Committee approved the Budget Committee's report with respect to the goal of $137,286.68, but stipulated that in the event this amount is not reached, the $3,600 included in the Y.M.C.A. budget for the employment of a women and girls' secretary be eliminated before reductions would be made in any other budgets.

This stipulation was based on the fact that although the women and girls' secretary would be a desirable and valuable addition to the Y's program, it is a new service which should not be added at the expense of other agencies' existing programs.

The Executive Committee also voted that the Y should get any sum raised in excess of $133,559.18 and up to the campaign goal of $137,286.68, provided it is used for the employment of a women and girls' secretary.

All Costs Up

The reasons for the increased financial needs of the other eight Red Feather agencies are for the most part due to the increased cost of supplies and operations which the agencies have to meet the same as any business or household, Chest officials said.

Members of the Budget Committee, which studied the programs and finances of every agency and met with representatives of each of them, included Mrs. Jane F. Price, Allegany Ballistics Laboratory; Robert W. Daugherty, of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company staff; Stanley Zorick of Local 26, United Rubber Workers Union; Charles F. Davis, Local 1874, Textile Union of America; Hudson Nix, personnel manager of the Celanese Corporation's Amcelle plant; T. J. Klauenberg, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the B. & O., and Charles L. Cross, representing the Cumberland Building and Construction Trades Council.

Chest President Charles L. Kopp expressed appreciation to the Budget Committee for the time and effort they had devoted to study of the agencies' requests, which required six meetings over a period of two weeks.

Court House Tower Job Is Proposed

A $12,000 estimate was submitted to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday by John C. Brinker, roofer, of 517 Oldtown Road, for repairs and improvements to the Court House tower.

No action was taken on the proposal.

Included in Brinker's work would be the relaying of all slate on the tower, renewing all valleys and flashings, renewing the stone spire, refilling mortar joints, waterproofing all exposed stone, repointing all joints, renewing all missing louver slats, covering all missing louver wires and covering the tower window. The waterproofing would be guaranteed 25 years, Brinker said.

A number of residents of Avenue "E" Potomac Park appeared at yesterday's meeting of the commissioners to ask for repairs to their street. Attending were Wesley McGraw, J. S. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Brady Sherman, Mrs. Robert Sherman and Melvin Lancaster.

Commissioners William H. Lemmert and James Orr advised all property owners along the street give the county necessary right-of-way deeds along the street as the first. One owner has so far declined. Although no promise was made, the owners were told that they would not be considered until all of the right-of-way deeds are received.

Francis G. Philpot of Shaft wrote to the commissioners asking why a road leading to his house is classed as a private road. He said the road does not belong to him but he has been required to purchase a truck to keep the road in passable condition. The county has never repaired it, he added. The matter was referred to J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, for his investigation.

Washington Co. Leaders Discuss Surplus Food

Three of the five members of the Washington County Board of Commissioners were at the Allegany County Court House here yesterday to obtain information about this county's program of distribution of federal surplus food to the needy of the county.

Allegany County was the first in Maryland to adopt such a food distribution program. This was begun in June 1954. Since then Garrett County also has started a similar activity. Most recently Baltimore city has been investigating the possibilities of such a program.

The three Washington County commissioners who visited here yesterday were George S. Fockler of Hagerstown, Harry C. Snook of Halfway, and Clarence V. Eldridge of Hagerstown. Unable to attend were W. Lee Elgin, president, and Chester F. Delphey.

No Decision Reached

They conferred with William Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners; J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor who has been in charge of the food distribution since its beginning, and Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners.

The neighbors from Washington County said they have not yet reached a decision on the distribution of food but probably will in a few weeks. The investigation was prompted by a suggestion from members of the United Auto Workers union at the Fairchild aircraft plant near Hagerstown.

Schedules Announced

Chapman, who spends two weeks each month distributing the surplus food, announced after his visitors left that the August distribution will start Monday at the American Legion Home in Westport. Tuesday the distribution will take place at the Barton Fire Hall, Wednesday at the Lonaconing VFW, Thursday at the Midland Fire Hall and Friday at St. Michael's Hall in Frostburg. The hours will be from 9 a. m. until noon except at Frostburg, where the distribution will continue until 1 p. m.

The following week's schedule: At Clarvsville Fire Hall August 20, at Mt. Savage VFW August 21, at Cresaptown Fire Hall, August 22, and at the County Garage on Franklin Street in Cumberland August 23 and 24. The first three days the hours will be 9 a. m. until noon, and in Cumberland, 9 a. m. until 2 p. m.

Pine Avenue Wins Parade Honors Here

Christmas Float Wins 2d Prize

Children from the city's 16 playgrounds last night staged a holiday parade over downtown streets crowded with Cumberland's older citizens.

It was a heart-warming demonstration and the crowds loved every bit of it.

Prizes were awarded to the playgrounds which entered the top floats and marching units in the demonstration.

Pine Avenue Playground, which entered a St. Valentine Day float and marching unit, won the first prize of $35.

The colorful float featured a diminutive cupid, aiming his bow and arrow at a demure victim.

Uses Yule Theme

Thomas S. Post Playground won second prize of $25 for its Christmas theme. On its float, Santa scattered presents to the crowds and beside him sat a happy family surrounded by presents. On a trailer following the first unit, a choir, accompanied by accordion music, sang Christmas carols.

East Side Playground, with its Memorial Day theme, won third prize of $20. On the float was the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, with his guard of honor. A bugler sounded taps as the float proceeded on the line of march.

Honorable mention and prizes of $10 each were given North End Playground for its lively Halloween float, and to Centre Street Playground for its Labor Day display.

All of the floats were good, and all displayed the weeks of effort which went into the parade.

Present Flowers

Judges were Oscar H. Lashley Jr., Bert J. Graham and William M. Wilson.

Special seats were provided opposite the reviewing stand for members of the Senior Citizens Club, who turned out to watch the city's younger citizens.

Absent from the stand were the Mayor and Council. Children from floats who stopped to present flowers and knickknacks, made the presentation to the Recreation Board, represented by Albert S. Paye and Mrs. Florence Yankelevitz.

With the flowers, a Virginia Avenue Playground spokesman left a card thanking the Mayor and Council and the Rec Board for the summer of fun.

Home Is Planned On Cochrane Highway

The City Building Engineer yesterday issued a permit for the construction of one dwelling and the Board of Zoning Appeals approved the building of another.

Richard Winer, Roberts Place, received a permit to build a 28-by-91-foot frame and stone dwelling on Cochrane Highway at a cost of $16,000.

The zoning appeals board Thursday night approved the application of James A. Shrock, 226 North Mechanic Street, to build a 37-by-28-foot one-story frame dwelling on Lot 27 of Mt. Royal Avenue.

The application had been referred to the board because the 6½-foot side yards provided were short of the 10-foot requirement.

'People Are So Nice':

Former Brother Candidate Faces Deportation Hearing

A former Dutch seaman who began a new life at SS. Peter and Paul Monastery here last year faces deportation to his native home in Holland.

The story of Bennie Luyben, 24-year-old sailor who jumped ship two years ago in New York and worked in many places around the country before becoming a brother candidate in the Capuchin Brothers Training Center here, came to light on Thursday.

U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officials set a deportation hearing August 17 for Luyben after he was turned over to him by officials of St. Mary's Capuchin Monastery at Herman, Pa.

Luyben, who longs to stay in America, "where people are so nice," said he jumped ship because he hated life at sea. He held jobs at Hoboken, N. J., and Manheim, Pa., and took a trip to California before coming here where he began training as a brother candidate last February.

While here, the red-cheeked, cheerful ex-sailor was a gardener, tending the monastery grounds. Last week, he was sent to the Capuchin monastery at Herman, where he was assigned to work on the farm as a layman to test whether or not he had a vocation for the Capuchin way of life.

When officials there found an old passport in his possession, they notified government officials, who instituted deportation proceedings. He is continuing his work at Herman pending the hearing.

Mt. District Legion Posts Meet Sunday

The posts comprising Mountain District American Legion will meet tomorrow at 2:15 p. m. at the home of Proctor-Kildow Post 71 in Oakland, for their annual formal caucus.

At this meeting posts will elect a department vice commander for the district, plus six department executive committeemen. These district representatives will be chosen, subject to ratification by the state department convention.

Area commanders and one delegate and one alternate to the national convention must also be chosen.

Russell C. Paupe, district adjutant, noted that an increase in Legion membership in Mountain District to 2,754 entitles the district to six committeemen instead of five, as in past years.

Most posts of the district already have selected their own delegations to attend the state department convention in Baltimore August 22 through August 25.

Police, Firemen To Meet

A regular meeting of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association will be held Monday at 8 p. m. in the squad room of the Public Safety Building.

He said an agreement should be reached before cold weather.

Schools Obtain 55 Per Cent Of County Funds

$3,893,636 Is Total Spent During Year

Total expenditures of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners during the fiscal year which ended June 30 were $3,893,636.85, and 55.82 per cent of that amount went for schools, William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of County Commissioners, said yesterday.

Lemmert submitted figures which revealed that the total school expenditures of the county commissioners between July 1, 1955, and June 30 of this year reached $2,173,301.20.

Of that amount $1,695,226.20 was used in the general operation of the school system. This included a $1,648,411 budget amount from appropriation and $46,815.20 from auto tax.

Bond Payments Costly

Another $478,075 went for payments on principal and interest of school bonds, principal and interest on school construction loans and teacher retirement costs. The breakdown shows $266,000 for principal on school bonds, $54,608.78 for interest on school bonds, $78,330.03 for principal on school construction loan, $62,325 interest on school construction loan and $16,611.19 for teachers' retirement. Deduction of the $2,173,301.20 for school expenditures left $1,720,335.65 as the amount the county commissioners spent for all other purposes. That is 44.18 per cent of the total.

Lemmert said that the actual assessable basis for Allegany County as of June 30 from real estate, personal property and corporation taxes was $146,943,069.

Tax Rate Is $2.95

Moving to the hypothetical, Lemmert explained that on the above assessable basis it would have required a $1.48 tax rate to meet the school expenses of $2,173,301.20. Another $1.17 would be needed to meet the other county expenses totaling $1,720,335.65.

However, money received from other sources was the equivalent of 60 cents on the tax rate, which leaves $2.05, the actual tax rate for last year and again this year.

Several weeks ago the County Board of Education published its financial statement for the fiscal year which ended June 30, which revealed that total expenditures for operation of the school system were $4,065,511.82. This figure does not take into consideration payments on the indebtedness.

Of that $4,065,511.82, some $2,319,866.70 came from state sources, $1,695,226.70 from county sources, $16,428.07 from federal sources and $32,283.68 from other sources.

Guard Praised As Camp Ends

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., Aug. 10.—The 29th Infantry Division, composed of National Guard units from Virginia and Maryland, started a motor trek home today after two weeks of summer training at this huge Army base near Harrisburg.

Virginia units moved out of the base on schedule today. The Maryland units will go home tomorrow, Col. Aronhald Sproul, commanding officer of the Virginia troops, praised the guardsmen in his command for their fine showing at the summer maneuvers.

"It was an extremely satisfactory encampment," the colonel said. "The instruction this year at camp was superior all the way through. The Maryland units of the division made final preparations for their return home Saturday.

Chest Campaign Goal Is Set At $137,286.68

Budget Requests Are Approved

The Cumberland Community Chest Executive Committee and campaign leaders yesterday announced the adoption of a goal of $137,286.68 for the 1956-57 drive in support of the nine local Red Feather agencies.

The Budget Committee reported yesterday that it recommended the goal at $137,286.68 on the basis of budgets prepared by the Chest agencies.

Simon Rosenbaum II, chairman, said the requests from the Chest's nine agencies were the minimum financial needs to continue their essential work in the community.

"After thorough examination," he said, "we found every agency's budget were carefully prepared, and the committee approved each request as it was presented. We found no items in any budget unreasonable or unjustified by the agency or its representatives."

New Position Planned

The Executive Committee approved the Budget Committee's report with respect to the goal of $137,286.68, but stipulated that in the event this amount is not reached, the $3,600 included in the Y.M.C.A. budget for the employment of a women and girls' secretary be eliminated before reductions would be made in any other budgets.

This stipulation was based on the fact that although the women and girls' secretary would be a desirable and valuable addition to the Y's program, it is a new service which should not be added at the expense of other agencies' existing programs.

The Executive Committee also voted that the Y should get any sum raised in excess of $133,559.18 and up to the campaign goal of $137,286.68, provided it is used for the employment of a women and girls' secretary.

All Costs Up

The reasons for the increased financial needs of the other eight Red Feather agencies are for the most part due to the increased cost of supplies and operations which the agencies have to meet the same as any business or household, Chest officials said.

Members of the Budget Committee, which studied the programs and finances of every agency and met with representatives of each of them, included Mrs. Jane F. Price, Allegheny Ballistics Laboratory; Robert W. Daugherty, of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company; Stanley Zorick of Local 26, United Rubber Workers Union; Charles F. Davis, Local 1874, Textile Union of America; Hudson Nix, personnel manager of the Celanese Corporation's Amelco plant; T. J. Klauenberg, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the B. & O., and Charles L. Cross, representing the Cumberland Building and Construction Trades Council.

Chest President Charles L. Kopp expressed appreciation to the Budget Committee for the time and effort they had devoted to study of the agencies' requests, which required six meetings over a period of two weeks.

Court House Tower Job Is Proposed

A $12,000 estimate was submitted to the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners yesterday by John C. Brinker, roofer, of 517 Oldtown Road, for repairs and improvements to the Court House tower.

No action was taken on the proposal.

Included in Brinker's work would be the relaying of all slate on the tower, renewing all valleys and flashings, renewing the stone spire, refilling mortar joints, waterproofing all exposed stone, repointing all joints, renewing all missing louver slats, covering all missing louver wires and covering the tower window. The waterproofing would be guaranteed 25 years, Brinker said.

A number of residents of Avenue "E" Potomac Park appeared at yesterday's meeting of the commissioners to ask for repairs to their street. Attending were Wesley McGraw, J. S. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Brady Sherman, Mrs. Robert Sherman and Melvin Lancaster.

Commissioners William H. Lemmert and James Orr advised all property owners along the street give the county necessary right-of-way deeds along the street as the first. One owner has so far declined. Although no promise was made, the owners were told that they would not be considered until all of the right-of-way deeds are received.

Francis G. Philpot of Shaft wrote to the commissioners asking why a road leading to his house is classed as a private road. He said the road does not belong to him but he has been required to purchase a truck to keep the road in passable condition. The county has never repaired it, he added. The matter was referred to J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, for his investigation.

Washington Co. Leaders Discuss Surplus Food

Three of the five members of the Washington County Board of Commissioners were at the Allegheny County Court House here yesterday to obtain information about this county's program of distribution of federal surplus food to the needy of the county.

Allegheny County was the first in Maryland to adopt such a food distribution program. This was begun in June 1954. Since then Garrett County also has started a similar activity. Most recently Baltimore city has been investigating the possibilities of such a program.

The three Washington County commissioners who visited here yesterday were George S. Fockler of Hagerstown, Harry C. Snook of Halfway, and Clarence V. Eldridge of Hagerstown. Unable to attend were W. Lee Elgin, president, and Chester F. Delph.

No Decision Reached

They conferred with William Lemmert, president of the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners; J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor who has been in charge of the food distribution since its beginning; and Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners.

The neighbors from Washington County said they have not yet reached a decision on the distribution of food but probably will in a few weeks. The investigation was prompted by a suggestion from members of the United Auto Workers union at the Fairchild aircraft plant near Hagerstown.

Schedules Announced

Chapman, who spends two weeks each month distributing the surplus food, announced after his visit that the August distribution will start Monday at the American Legion Home in Westport. Tuesday the distribution will take place at the Barton Fire Hall, Wednesday at the Lonaconga VFW, Thursday at the Midland Fire Hall and Friday at St. Michael's Hall in Frostburg. The hours will be from 9 a. m. until noon except at Frostburg, where the distribution will continue until 1 p. m.

The following week's schedule: At Clarysville Fire Hall August 20, at Mt. Savage VFW August 21, at Cresaptown Fire Hall, August 22, and at the County Garage on Franklin Street in Cumberland August 23 and 24. The first three days the hours will be 9 a. m. until noon, and in Cumberland, 9 a. m. until 2 p. m.

Comments Fall Fast As Budget Talks Begin

City officials made some pointed remarks Thursday night as they sat down to plan the 1956-57 budget.

The remarks ranged from a comment that $5,300 was "a lot for the city band" to questions as to why prisoners picked up by Maryland State Police should be lodged at city expense while awaiting trial.

Virtually every item in the proposed budget would require a tax rate of $1.58 came in for comment.

When it was pointed out that the tax limitation might be increased another year by using home rule powers, Thomas B. Finan predicted, and virtually everyone agreed, that it would "be voted down."

Need New Sources

Finance Commission John L. Long said the city must find other sources of revenue, due to the many additions to the city's services.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said they will have to be taxes which do not fall primarily on the property owner, and warned that the costs for flood control will rise sharply.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said one of the most urgent items in his budget was a new 1,000-gallon pumper for Central, now served by a 20-year-old 500-gallon truck. Officials said it might be purchased on "time."

Buchholtz said his men have notified him they intend to sit it out if they do not get a decent raise.

Officials pointed out the city has no reason to pay $2,500 a year to the Juvenile Court but was saddled with the cost.

Change Is Planned

Finan pointed out the city ordinances do not mention the subject, but said plans are underway for a change in plan which would eliminate the city contribution.

When Chief Parker mentioned funds to maintain the radio network, Gibson pointed maintenance is a county CD function.

Buchholtz said the $4 a month proposal for night parking on the streets would bring in part of the revenue needed.

Police Chief R. E. Flynn said he needs men urgently, since the Police Department often must operate with seven men a shift.

Water Commission William J. Edwards, replying to query from Long, said his department will have a budget for the coming year, and that it is now being prepared.

Buchholtz said the issue is whether to keep taxes where they are or use the whole eight cents, as anything in between would do little good.

Long warned it will take some cutting to keep the rate at $1.50 and Finan said he would like to see the rate kept where it is.

The answer, Long said, is to make some economies if the rate is to be kept.

Pine Avenue Wins Parade Honors Here

Christmas Float Wins 2d Prize

Children from the city's 16 playgrounds last night staged a holiday parade over downtown streets crowded with Cumberland's older citizens.

It was a heart-warming demonstration and the crowds loved every bit of it.

Prizes were awarded to the playgrounds which entered the top floats and marching units in the demonstration.

Pine Avenue Playground, which entered a St. Valentine Day float and marching unit, won the first prize of $35.

The colorful float featured a diminutive cupid, aiming his bow and arrow at a demure victim.

Uses Yule Theme

Thomas S. Post Playground won second prize of $25 for its Christmas theme. On its float, Santa scattered presents to the crowds and beside him sat a happy family surrounded by presents. On a trailer following the first unit, a choir, accompanied by accordion music, sang Christmas carols.

East Side Playground, with its Memorial Day theme, won third prize of $20. On the float was the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, with his guard of honor. A bugler sounded taps as the float proceeded on the line of march.

Honorable mention and prizes of $10 each were given North End Playground for its lively Halloween float, and to Centre Street Playground for its Labor Day display.

All of the floats were good, and all displayed the weeks of effort which went into the parade.

Present Flowers

Judges were Oscar H. Lashley Jr., Bert J. Graham and William M. Wilson.

Special seats were provided opposite the reviewing stand for members of the Senior Citizens Club, who turned out to watch the city's younger citizens.

Absent from the stand were the Mayor and Council. Children from floats who stopped to present flowers and knickknacks, made the presentation to the Recreation Board, represented by Albert S. Payne and Mrs. Florence Yankelwitz.

With the flowers, a Virginia Avenue Playground spokesman left a card thanking the Mayor and Council and the Rec Board for the summer of fun.

Home Is Planned On Cochrane Highway

The City Building Engineer yesterday issued a permit for the construction of one dwelling and the Board of Zoning Appeals approved the building of another.

Richard Winer, Roberts Place, received a permit to build a 28-by-91-foot frame and stone dwelling on Cochrane Highway at a cost of $16,000.

The zoning appeals board Thursday night approved the application of James A. Shrock, 226 North Mechanic Street, to build a 37-by-28-foot one-story frame dwelling on Lot 27 of Mt. Royal Avenue.

The application had been referred to the board because the 6½-foot side yards provided were short of the 10-foot requirement.

'People Are So Nice':

Former Brother Candidate Faces Deportation Hearing

A former Dutch seaman who began a new life at SS. Peter and Paul Monastery here last year faces deportation to his native home in Holland.

The story of Bennie Luyben, 24-year-old sailor who "jumped ship two years ago in New York and worked in many places around the country before becoming a brother candidate in the Capuchin Brothers Training Center here, came to light on Thursday.

U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officials set a deportation hearing August 17 for Luyben after he was turned over to them by officials of St. Mary's Capuchin Monastery at Herman, Pa.

Luyben, who longs to stay in America, "where people are so nice," said he jumped ship because he hated life at sea. He held jobs at Hoboken, N. J., and Manheim, Pa., and took a trip to California before coming here where he began training as a brother candidate last February.

While here, the red-cheeked, cheerful ex-sailor was a gardener, tending the monastery grounds.

Last week, he was sent to the Capuchin monastery at Herman, where he was assigned to work on the farm as a layman to test whether or not he had a vocation for the Capuchin way of life.

When officials there found an old passport in his possession, they notified government officials, who instituted deportation proceedings. He is continuing his work at Herman pending the hearing.

Mt. District Legion Posts Meet Sunday

The posts comprising Mountain District American Legion will meet tomorrow at 2:15 p. m. at the home of Proctor-Kildow Post 71 in Oakland, for their annual formal caucus.

At this meeting posts will elect a department vice commander for the district, plus six department executive committee members. These district representatives will be chosen, subject to ratification by the state department convention.

Area commanders and one delegate and one alternate to the national convention must also be chosen.

Russell C. Paupe, district adjutant, noted that an increase in Legion membership in Mountain District to 2,754 entitles the district to six committee members instead of five, as in past years.

Most posts of the district already have selected their own delegations to attend the state department convention in Baltimore August 22 through August 25.

Schools Obtain 55 Per Cent Of County Funds

$3,893,636 Is Total Spent During Year

Total expenditures of the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners during the fiscal year which ended June 30 were $3,893,636.85, and 55.82 per cent of that amount went for schools, William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of County Commissioners, said yesterday.

Lemmer submitted figures which revealed that the total school expenditures of the county commissioners between July 1, 1955, and June 30 of this year reached $2,173,301.20.

Of that amount $1,695,226.20 was used in the general operation of the school system. This included a $1,648,411 budget amount from appropriation and $46,815.20 from auto tax.

Bond Payments Costly

Another $478,075 went for payments on principal and interest of school bonds, principal and interest on school construction loans and teacher retirement costs. The breakdown shows $266,000 for principal on school bonds, $54,608.78 for interest on school bonds, $78,530.03 for principal on school construction loan, $62,325 interest on school construction loan and $16,611.19 for teachers' retirement. Deduction of the $2,173,301.20 for school expenditures left $1,720,335.65 as the amount the county commissioners spent for all other purposes. That is 44.18 per cent of the total.

Lemmer said that the actual assessable basis for Allegheny County as of June 30 from real estate, personal property and corporation taxes was $146,943,069.

Tax Rate Is $2.95

Moving to the hypothetical, Lemmer explained that on the above assessable basis it would have required a $1.48 tax rate to meet the school expenses of $2,173,301.20. Another $1.17 would be needed to meet the other county expenses totaling $1,720,335.65.

However, money received from other sources was the equivalent of 60 cents on the tax rate, which leaves $2.05, the actual tax rate for last year and again this year.

Several weeks ago the County Board of Education published its financial statement for the fiscal year which ended June 30, which revealed that total expenditures for operation of the school system were $4,065,511.82. This figure does not take into consideration payments on the indebtedness.

Of that $4,065,511.82, some $2,319,866.70 came from state sources, $1,695,226.70 from county sources, $16,428.07 from federal sources and $32,283.68 from other sources.
